Out of thousands of businesses in Minnesota, two of the Top 150 Workplaces have headquarters in Staples. Lakewood Health System and Sourcewell were both on the list published June 28 in the Minneapolis Star-Tri-

Over 3,000 companies were invited to participate, and the analysis included responses from more than 76,000 employees. The rankings in the Star Tribune Top 150 Workplaces are based on survey information collected by Energage, an independent company specializing in employee engagement and retention.

This also marks the fifth-consecutive year Sourcewell has been honored as a Top Workplace in

The annual designation process recognizes the most progressive Minnesota companies or organizations with a staff of 50 or more and is based on employee opinions measuring engagement, organizational health and satisfaction.

"What makes this honor so great is that it's based upon employee feedback,' said Sourcewell Executive Director and CEO Dr. Chad Coauette. "Sure, it's great to be told by other organizations that you're doing a good job; but when the accolades come from within when it's your own staff that are saying 'this is a great place to work,' - then, it's more special than you can ever imagine

AgCentric addresses ag technician gap

Central Lakes College and AgCentric has been awarded a $584,613 National Science Foundation (NSF) grant for research on addressing the critical issue of an agricultural technician workforce gap. The agricultural equipment industry has a significant shortage of qualified technicians trained to manufacture, use and maintain equipment costing the economy $180 billion in lost revenue, according to a study commissioned by the Associated Equipment Distributors Foundation.

The Technical Applications in Agriculture (TAA) project will bring together community college, secondary school faculty, equipment manufacturers and dealers to develop and implement a secondary curriculum and professional development initiative.

The partners, led by AgCentric at Central Lakes College, Staples and CASE (Curriculum for Agricultural Science Education) along with Northland Community and Technical College, Ridgewater College and industry collaborators, will leverage their resources and experience to ensure this project meets industry. student and faculty needs in agricultural technician education.

"As the agriculture industry employs more precision technology, the demand for trained talent grows significantly, said Keith Olander, Director of AgCentric and Dean of Agricultural Studies at Central Lakes College, Staples. "This project will support high school and college programs in training vouth for Technical Applications in Agriculture by building and replicating an industry led model of career readiness. Partnering education and industry is a powerful way to make an impact in a rapidly growing field of employment.'

This important project will advance national interests in health, prosperity and welfare through educating students in manufacturing technologies for farming operations and equipment, geospatial technologies, robotics, electronics, sensors and computer controls. The course will be designed for dual enrollment credit at post-secondary institutions. Secondary students successfully completing the course for a credential and college credit will move seamlessly into an agricultural technician training program at partnering post-secondary schools or into the agricultural technician workforce.

The TAA project's primary goal, to create a pathway for high school agriculture students, leading to a college and industry-recognized credential, that will make a measurable impact on the agriculture technician workforce.

"The NSF grant allows a collaboration of experts in education, curriculum development and technical skills to develop programming needed by industry and agricultural education to meet the high demand for agricultural technicians in the workforce," said Carl Aakre, CASE Assistant Director. "The professional development and curriculum resulting from this grant will start secondary students towards a successful career path as an agricultural technician."

WorkForce Center busy during COVID-19

By Mark Anderson Managing Editor

Massive changes in employment are being caused by the COVID-19 pandemic and Minnesota's stay at home orders. For some workers, it can be an opportunity to gain new skills or get retrained for a different job.

At the June 24 Staples Chamber videoconference, Darla Hoemberg of the CareerForce Center in Wadena gave an update on some of the services available for people who have become unemployed during the COVID-19 crisis. During the stay at home order, the CareerForce Center worked by phone or with virtual visits. They now are open by appointment and people can set up a time to use one the CareerForce computer lab to find a job.

Hoemberg said live interviews are better than phone calls. "That personal connection is really important," she said, "networking is huge for people."

While the CareerForce Center does not do unemployment services, Hoemberg said they can help point people in the right direction. She said a lot of people struggled with the state's unemployment system. "There were some tears, or they were upset because we couldn't help them," she said, "we tried to help them get through the questions.

Because of the impact of the COVID-19 crisis, many businesses have shut down or cut workers. Hoemberg said they tried to reach out to dislocated workers and she made calls to some businesses that were not reopening right away.

For workers, the Career-Force Center can offer dislocated worker services. Hoemberg said they have had good success with virtual job fairs.

For businesses, they can supply funding to train new

Grand opening for CTC Center slated for Fall, 2021

Pillager School District partners with CTC for new auditorium

At the groundbreaking ceremony for the new CTC Center

A groundbreaking ceremony for the new CTC Performing Arts Center at Pillager School was held June 16. In attendance were representatives of the school; Nor-Son Construction, construction manager; CTC (Consolidated Telephone Company); and architect firm Widseth.

Thanks to a partnership between the Pillager School District and CTC, a new auditorium is being constructed at the school. A groundbreaking ceremony was held June 16.

According to a press release, the new auditorium will serve as a multi-functional community facility and will include tiered 350-seat theater seating, quality sound and lighting, ground-level entrance and large, flexible space for a variety of meetings, events and activities.

Construction of the auditorium, a $5.9 million project, was approved by voters during the 2019 referendum. CTC has agreed to provide extra funding to help get the facility up and running, including bringing in entertainment acts.

The idea for the school to partner with CTC came about after a conversation Pillager School Superintendent Mike Malmberg had with Kristi Westbrock, CEO/General Manager at CTC.

At the groundbreaking ceremony, Westbrock said that after learning about the school's vision to build a new auditorium, it seemed to be the sort of project CTC would like to be a part of. Pillager is in the heart of the rural area they serve, Westbrock said, going on to note they wanted to do something for the community.

Malmberg said that the goal of the school board and the school is to provide more opportunities and events for the community.

"It was the jump start they needed," Westbrock said of CTC's offer to partner with them.

Nor-Son Construction out of Brainerd is the contracted company for the project; and Widseth, also of Brainerd/Baxter, is the architect firm.

Andy Anderson, President & CEO of Nor-Son Construction, said that they have had a history with the school since 1993 and they "are honored to continue this relationship." Nor-son is looking forward to the construction process of the new auditorium, Anderson added.

The official kick-off for construction is anticipated to begin this September, with the CTC Center slated to open in the Fall of 2021.

Malmberg and Westbrock said they are hoping to bring in a great entertainment act for the grand opening celebration, as well as to have a community festival and picnic.

At the June 23 SEDA meeting, TCDC Director Rick Utech presented the yearly report showing some of the work he had done in 2019. TCDC held a series of workshops at Sourcewell in Staples that included presentations by professional speakers on financial planning and succession planning for businesses. TCDC also implemented the Location One Information System for Todd County.

As for the $1,000 sponsor request, "We multiply that many times over in the community," said Utech. For example, the business work-

Similarly, the Initiative Foundation gives back more into the community than the $1,000 donation from the city.

Staples City audit clean

By Mark Anderson Managing Editor

The annual audit of the City of Staples was completed with a clean opinion. Chuck Mayer of Mayer, Porter & Nelson said the audit didn't find any deficiences. He said 43 percent of revenues are in the fund balance, which is within the range recommended by the state auditor.

He gave a report on the audit at the June 23 Staples City Council meeting.

Also at the meeting, City Administrator Jerel Nelsen said the money the city receives for COVID-19 crisis programs will likely carry over to multiple years and is one time only money.

The council approved a liquor license for Beck's Burgers Co., a bar and restaurant that will open in the former Twisted Sisters

Timbers still going strong

After being closed nearly three months due to COVID-19, Timbers Restaurant and Event Center in Staples is back in business, continuing to adhere to governmental guidelines and restrictions, with social distancing at the top of the list. Pictured above in the main dining area are, from left, Timbers employees Maddi Johnson, Event Coordinator; and Eric Neznik, Sales and Event Manager. Neznik said that during the months they were closed, they used to time to do some cosmetic updates, including repainting a portion of the dining area, staining the wood trim around the windows; and adding some decorative dividers. Neznik also mentioned that Timbers is happy to have 'survived COVID' thanks to faithful area patrons who placed to-go orders and utilized the curbside pickup option while the main dining area was closed. Due to social distancing, the number of guests they can accommodate has been reduced, but Neznik said, "We remain hopeful those restrictions continue to be eased and eventually lifted altogether."

We are open and ready to welcome students, with flexibility

By Dr. Hara Charlier, President of Central Lakes College

It's remarkable that only a few short months ago we took the initial steps to deal with COVID-19. Since then, the pandemic has dramatically altered our lives in ways we will always remember. Although there are still unknowns about the future, this much is certain: Central Lakes College will be open in the fall and ready to welcome students, and we are doing so with great flexibility.

Let's address the big question on people's minds: What will that fall semester look like? There is no question that the health and safety of our students and employees is our top priority. We also know that the needs of our students and programs varies widely, and our mission demands that we meet those needs. Therefore, we're planning a combination of in-person and online instruction, with a great deal of flexibility built in. Students can count on getting what they need while staying safe.

For many of our traditional courses, coming to campus will be optional. This is possible by using our Live Online and Hy Flex courses that allow students to attend live, in-person if conditions permit or online, in real-time from the safety of their homes. We are proud to give our students in our technical courses practical, hands-on education, and we will live up to that commitment. This fall, those courses will also use some online components, but students can count on coming to our labs and shops for in-person work in a careful and safe environment. Our faculty are ready to adjust the schedule as needed to make sure students get the education they need and stay safe.

Our faculty are constantly adjusting to meet each student's needs. One example comes from Natural Resources instructor Kent Montgomery, who connects to his incoming students through Zoom. While Covid-19 restrictions prevented him from meeting with students in-person over the summer, his well-crafted Zoom video productions gave students and their families a unique glimpse into his classroom.

Kent added, "Programs and instructors have been reaching out to new and returning students using varieties of technology. Students have been updated on the latest plans for delivering classes in the fall and they will still receive the same quality education that CLC is been known for, regardless of the method of delivery."

New programs provide new opportunities, and fall $20\bar{20}$ will bring plenty. Our new Culinary Arts Program coming to our Staples campus is a perfect example. This program is the result of collaboration of the entire community and features working both in our Staples campus commercial kitchen and getting significant experiences in many local establishments. We are grateful to our K-12 partners, the Brainerd Lakes Chamber and our restaurants and resorts for working so hard to bring this much-anticipated program to fruition. We are also excited about several new programs that allow students to seamlessly transfer to universities. This year, we launch transfer pathways in Fine Arts, Social Work, Biology, Chemistry, Economics, Exercise Science, Psychology and Sociology.

While outstanding academics is critical, as we look to fall, there's much more to consider. It's important that students have access to everything they need to be successful, even when coming to campus may be difficult. This fall, students will have access to both remote and in-person advisors, tutors, technology, student life activities and even our food pantries. We are also launching virtual computer labs to make sure that critical software programs that were once only accessible on campus, can now be fully accessed from home.

CLC is about making connections and building relationships to help students reach their goals. It's important to us that students get to know us this way, regardless of how much time they spend on our campuses. This fall we're taking steps to ensure that students get connected, even when they might not be on campus. All new students will be part of a "learning group." Led by a CLC faculty or staff mentor, these groups will meet online regularly and be a place to get comfortable with online communication, ask questions and connect students to each other and CLC resources.

We're finding that many students who planned to attend an out-of-state college or university are choosing to stay close to home and take classes at CLC. We are all fully accredited and offer the Minnesota Transfer Curriculum, a 40-credit package of general education courses that transfers to other state colleges and universities, the University of Minnesota and many private institutions.

Those who have lost jobs due to the pandemic are considering joining CLC to learn a new skill or pursuing a dream. We offer many opportunities to retool skills for high-demand jobs right here in our region, like Healthcare Administration, Information Technology, Graphic Design and so much more.

All new students can look forward to our annual All Set for Fall event, which helps students get connected to resources, answer any lingering questions, and so much more. While this year's event will be virtual, we have some exciting activities in the works. Stay tuned for more on that.

Remember: Fall registration is open now. Go to our website to sign up for classes, talk to an advisor and explore the many options at Central Lakes College.

Quote of the week

And it is still our passion to match children with wonderful, supportive mentors like we always have. One of the things that is so special about our program is all the support we have had from the community throughout the years. Whether it is through businesses and private donors who help support our program financially, schools who have opened the doors to our Lunch Buddies Program, Mentors who have stepped up to the plate and decided to help make a difference for a child or those who have attended our fundraisers, we truly could not do it without you. We also cannot get through the days ahead without your continued support and we as well need you now more than ever.

As we navigate this uncontinue to refer children who could use some extra support during this time to us so we can match them with a mentor. We ask that those who have a heart for kids contact us to become a mentor, if you have been on the fence about it, now is as good a time as ever. If you are so able, please consider us in your giving. And as we come up with new fundraising opportunities, we would love nothing more than your help with making them a success. For the first year ever Kinship is having a "Bikers for Kids Benefit Ride", and we continue to explore new and fun ways to come together and raise money for our programs.

So ves. we are still here. And with your support we plan on being better than

Unemployment affecting 800,000 Minnesotans

By Steve Grove Minnesota Departmnet of Employment and Economic Development (DEED) Commissioner

Since the beginning of the COVID-19 pandemic, Minnesota's Unemployment Insurance (UI) program has received more than 800,000 applications for unemployment. The impact of this global pandemic is staggering and has impacted every community in our state. We know how difficult the past few months have been for so many Minnesotans who found themselves out of work - or working significantly less – through no fault of their own, as well as for the hundreds of thousands of businesses who have had to close, modify operations, change their business practices and find new ways to bring in revenue or serve their customers and

Through it all, I've been deeply encouraged by how Minnesotans have come together to support one another and their communities, and take the proper safety precautions like wearing masks and social distancing so we can continue to safely reopen our economy, put people back to work and help our small businesses across Minnesota.

There are several undates related to Unemployment Insurance that we want to be sure you know about:

Federal funding

Earlier this month, DEED made the formal request to transition to federal funding for unemployment benefits. We expect that the fund balance in our state's UI Trust Fund will go negative in July, and we acted proactively to ensure benefits will continue without delay. Many other states had to make this request before Minnesota, and we expect that all 50 states will have to do so in order to handle the unprecedented rise in unemployment claims across the country. Rest assured, this transition to federal funding is something we've done before and it is a clear process laid out in federal law. If you remain eligible to receive unemployment, you will see no delay or change in your benefits because of this transition.

The extra $600/week ends in July

Minnesotans who have been receiving unemployment or Pandemic Unemployment Assistance (PUA) have also received an additional $600 payment each week, which was provided by the federal government in the CARES Act. The last week that this additional benefit can be paid is the week ending July 25, 2020. If you remain eligible for unemployment or PUA, you'll still receive your normal payment – but after July 25, vou will no longer receive the additional $600.

High school students and unemployment

Minnesota state law currently prohibits high school students from receiving unemployment. We applaud the advocates and lawmakers who are working to temporarily change this to address the ongoing pandemic and economic disruption. Governor Walz and DEED are supportive of this change, and will continue to work with legislators to support legislation to temporarily expand the program to high school students.

Unemployment and fraud

Minnesota's UI program runs a continuous investigation program to detect suspicious accounts or fraudulent activity. Unfortunately, given the influx of unemployment applications, we've also seen an increase in bad actors who have stolen personal identities from other sources and tried to use them to fraudulently apply for unemployment benefits. In most cases, we are able to detect these fraudulent attempts and stop them before any money gets paid and we do report cases to the Bureau of Criminal Apprehension and the Office of the Inspector General at the U.S. Department of Labor. One common way that fraud is discovered is if a person who did not apply for unemployment receives a determination of benefit account letter. If you, or anyone you know, suspects fraud in the unemployment insurance program, we encourage you to report it immediately here: Report Unemployment Insurance Fraud.

Help when you need it

As always, the hardworking staff at Minnesota's Unemployment Insurance program stand ready to help you. Most Minnesotans who have applied for UI have begun receiving benefits, but if you have questions or need assistance - visit uimn. org first, where we've provided pages of information, resources and frequently asked questions. If you need additional help, we're asking folks to call on certain days or times so we can better serve everyone – you can find more information about that here.

This continues to be an extraordinary time for unemployment insurance programs across the country. Our goal is to provide the best service possible to Minnesotans as we navigate the COVID-19 pandemic together.

CLC plans for students on campus in the fall

Central Lakes College is ready to welcome students, back to campus as well as online, and is greeting them with a freeze on tuition for fall semester.

We are pleased to be able to offer this tuition freeze to our students as part of our commitment to access, affordability and removing barriers for all students who want to pursue their education," said Dr. Hara Charlier, President of CLC.

CLC joins all colleges and universities in the Minnesota State system in this freeze of tuition.

Devinder Malhotra, chancellor of Minnesota State, added "The undergraduate tuition freeze for fall semester is a sign of our commitment to affordability and a compelling incentive for students. Every one of our 30 colleges and seven universities stands ready to welcome students back fall semester and are prepared to help them achieve their educational goals, whether they are just starting college, continuing on their educational journey, or going back to school to retool their skills for new job opportunities.

Tuition at the colleges and universities of Minnesota State is the lowest of all higher education options in Minnesota, starting at approximately $5,000 per year at the 30 Minnesota State colleges and $8,000 a year at the seven state universities before scholarships or other aid. The move to freeze undergraduate tuition for fall semester will keep rates at the level charged for fiscal year 2020. A three percent tuition increase will go into effect spring semester 2021 to fund inflationary costs and long-term financial and programmatic sustainabil-

Since the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic and the rapid pivot to alternative modes of delivery for spring semester, Minnesota State has been adapting its curriculum and preparing its facilities to allow in-person instruction and co-curricular activities to resume. For fall semester, the colleges and universities of Minnesota State will offer a mix of on-campus and online courses reflecting how each institution can best support its students and their success. Plans for fall semester prioritize the safety of students, faculty and staff; include strategies for learning and campus activities, social distancing, and cleaning and disinfecting protocols; and will be refined as federal and state guidance changes.

"Thanks to the incredible work of our faculty, our staff and our students," said Malhotra, "we have tremendous flexibility to quickly pivot to either more restrictive or less restrictive modes should conditions change.'

One initiative to drive

enrollment for fall semester at CLC is a dramatic expansion of the Workforce Development Scholarship program that is making 72 scholarships of $2,500 each available to students who enroll in programs leading to high demand occupations in healthcare services, advanced manufacturing, information technology, transportation, early childhood education or agriculture. Additional information on this program is available at MinnState.edu/

The system also launched the Elevate Minnesota Scholars campaign that targets students who are planning to study outside Minnesota and encourage them to rethink their plans, and stay closer to home as they work toward their educational goals and help to build their communities. Under this campaign, for a limited time, participating colleges and universities will waive the application fee. Additional information is available at MinnState. edu/Elevate.

The colleges and universities of Minnesota State serve students at campuses in 54 communities across the state and offer 3.900 academic programs, more than 700 fully online.

"A Gift of Love"

Submitted by Pastor Roy Miles, Staples Assembly of God Church

The story of a boy who knew the meaning of "Love thine enemies."

One day a new prisoner was brought into the cell of a Romanian prison, where there were some Christian preachers who were condemned for preaching the Word of God. Almost immediately, they recognized him as a former captain of the Romanian security forces, one who had arrested and investigated believers. "How did you get here?" the brothers asked. In reply he told them the following story:

"Recently, a 12-year-old boy came into my office carrying a flower in his hand. I was extremely surprised to see him and asked him why he had come. 'Today is my mother's birthday,' the boy replied, 'And I love her very much.

Every year I brought her a flower for a birthday present. But you have taken my mama and papa away because they are Christians. Now I have no one to give this flower to. So I am asking you to give this flower to your wife. Tell her that I love you and please tell her about Christ."

"They boy stretched out his hand and gave that flower to me! I was touched to the depths of my heart, like Saul in the Bible, I could feel the Spirit of God working in me. With tears in my eyes I went up to the boy, embraced and kissed him, and told him I would no longer persecute Christians. From that day on I turned to God, refusing to arrest Believers any more. As a result, I have now been arrested.'

Let's ask the Lord Jesus for this kind of love today!
