Tom Gonzalez implored the Staples community to work on building relationships. That is one of the solutions to combating the effects of Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACE). He spoke about ACE at a forum on March 19 at Centennial Auditorium in Staples.

Gonzalez talked about the causes of ACE, the damage they cause, the body and brain changes they cause, and the resiliency needed to overcome

Hello, Readers,

'Have you backed up your data recently? Every day people, businesses, even games lose huge amounts of valuable data because they fail to follow this one basic procedure. World Backup Day, March 31, is set aside as a reminder to back up your files, even if it's once a year. A backup is a reserve copy of all the files you'd be loathe to use. There's nothing more traumatizing than losing your phone, or having your hard drive crash, and having hundreds of valuable and irreplaceable documents or photos suddenly gone beyond retrieval.

"But my phone is always on me!" I hear you say! Wonderful! That'll make it easier for you to be one of the 113 phones stolen every minute, each day. In this modern digital world, many of us live from our phones. Do you really want to chance losing all of that when backup options are so easy and available? An internet search can yield a variety of options. Research what methods will work for you and your lifestyle.

Chronic health problems are much more common for people with a high ACE score, such as heart disease, lung disease and depression. They can also contribute to higher rates of alcoholism, violence against partners, obesity, unintended pregnancy, low education, unemployment, missing work and workplace injuries.

Many of those behaviors stem from the individual not being able to confront their ACE issues, and their attempts to escape pain and avoid reality.

The problem can become so deep, that the person's brain function

How many birds do you see in the trees?

On the first day of Spring, March 21, a flock of birds took refuge in a tree in Staples during a respite from cold, as winter is still hanging on here. The Staples World asks readers, how many birds do you count in this photo? Also can you tell what kind of birds these are? The Staples World staff identified the birds as common redpolls, although we are not sure. They appear to be well-fed birds (no judging their lifestyle here). (Staples World photo by Mark Anderson)

Governor candidates share views at conservatives forum

By Mark Anderson News Editor

Three Republican candidates for governor shared goals of shrinking the Minnesota government and reducing taxes, but they differentiated themselves on how to reach those goals and on other issues. The candidates were in Staples March 20 for a forum hosted by Crossroads Conservatives, a local political group.

Phillip Parrish, Mary Giuliani Stephens and Jeff Johnson gave opening speeches and participated in a question and answer forum. Other Republican candidates, including Keith Downey and Lance Johnson, were unable to

All three candidates said they would reduce government and cut taxes, but differed on some of the specifics of where they would make their cuts.

Giuliani Stephens said she would get rid of the MNLARS vehicle licensing system and the MNSURE health care system. She also said many organizations duplicate tasks, and pointed to water agencies as an example. "I would only fund mission critical programs," such as public safety and infrastructure, said Giuliani-Stephens. Johnson said his cuts would start with the state human services budget and said the transportation budget is wasting funds on train lines. He would make cuts to regulations across state agencies. "In half the state agencies - ag, commerce, education - people think they know how to live our lives better than we do," said Johnson. Parrish said he would look through every one of the 183 Minnesota agencies and make sure they're all accountable for their spending. His first cut would be ending the refugee relocation program.

Parrish had the strongest anti-immigrant sentiment of the three candidates. His opening statement connected immigrants to money laundering, fraud and human trafficking coming out of Minnesota. He said they're holding classes in foreign countries teaching immigrants how to exploit U.S.

Giuliani Stephens said she agrees with President Trump's immigration policies, including the border wall and suggested states should have a choice in forming their own immigration policies.

Johnson agreed that immigration will be an important issue for Minnesota, and said he would pause the refugee program until they can figure out the impact. He said he

NJPA shared services for over 40 years

Name changing to Sourcewell

By Mark Anderson News Editor

At the 40th anniversary celebration of National Joint Powers Alliance (NJPA) in Staples, Executive Director Chad Coauette said the organization is "offering service like never before.'

His assessment was backed up by some of the partners and members in the audience at the event.

Little Falls School Superintendent Steve Jones said he didn't know what NJPA did when he first heard about the organization a few years ago. Now he is sold on the concept. "What NJPA does is phenomenal, it is truly special," said Jones.

Paul Drange, Director of Regional Programs at NJPA, said the organization is continuing to grow, and will be adding staff to assist cities and counties, schools and non-profits. Drange said their members and partners have "shaped the way we serve the region."

Cheryal Lee Hills, Executive Director at Region Five Development Commission, said that NJPA is a great partner for regional projects, not just because of their programs. "It is about authentic, real relationships" that they continue to build, said Hills.

At the end of the event, NJPA announced they will change their name to reflect their services, and will be called Sourcewell, starting in June, 2018.

History

At the 40 year celebration, a fact sheet about the history of NJPA was referenced.

In 1977, the Staples School District took advantage of a new state law that allowed the formation of Educational Cooperative Service Units (ECSU). Superintendent Dr. Duane Lund encouraged enough schools in Region 5 (Cass, Crow Wing, Morrison, Todd and Wadena None of the candidates mentioned school shootings or gun ownership in their opening statements, but they had some differences in response to a question about it.

Parrish is a former teacher and principal and is in favor of some school staff being licensed to carry guns in schools. "They can protect our students," he said.

Giuliani Stephens said the real issues are mental illness and acts. She suggested a local approach, saying "each school knows the best approach to school safety."

Johnson took that a step further, saying "We need to figure out what's going on with boys in America. Something has happened that has nothing to do with guns." He said some of the suggested approaches, like raising the age limit for certain guns, would do 'zero" to solve the prob-

The three candidates also shared their thoughts on the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources

Parrish said the DNR was an "unabated tyrant in Minnesota," and suggested he would "put them back in place.'

Giulani Stephens said she would like to see DNR regulations rolled back. "Permitting is more cumbersome" because of DNR requirements, she said.

Johnson also said he would like to "reign in the DNR." He cited an alternative program in Wisconsin where local committees set regulations and limits, and the DNR can only overrule them if they have scientific evidence.

All three candidates had the same short response to Minnesota's practice of taxing Social Sercurity income: "End it."

PayNearMe - a new way to pay child support

Submitted by Todd County Health and Human Services

Parents can now pay their child support with cash using a vendor; PayNearMe. The following retailers: CVS, 7-Eleven, Family Dollar, and Casey's General Stores offer this service. For a location near youstore, go to PayNearMe. com/locations.

To make a cash payment at a retail location, parent must have a barcode provided by PayNearMe. Barcodes are generated in

- Parents can obtain a barcode using the PayNearMe website.
- Parents can use PayNearMe app from his or her mobile phone.
- The county child support office can also generate a barcode for the parent using PayNearMe Portal.

Barcodes are scanned at the retail location to make the cash payment. A barcode can be reused multiple times at any location of the same retailer, but cannot be used at a different retailer.

Parents receive a receipt with a date and time stamp from the cashier as proof of payment. PavNearMe notifies the MN Department of Human Services of the payment within 15 minutes. Payments may take three to four banking days to post to the child support account.

There's a processing fee for each PayNearMe cash payment and a maximum transaction amount.

CAD student survey on drugs, alcohol complete

Nearly 1,200 students across Todd County recently participated in a survey showing the strengths and supports they possess: developmental assets which help young people make positive choices in their lives.

Todd County CAD administered the survey in mid-February to 1,196 students in Long Prairie-Grey Eagle, Staples-Motley, Browerville, Bertha-Hewitt and Freshwater ALC. The majority of the survey focused on these developmental assets, but also included substance use questions measuring four "core" areas of concern: 30 day substance use; perception of risk; perception of parental disapproval and perception of peer disapproval. The questions are required through Todd County CAD's current Drug Free Communities (DFC) grant to collect every two years. Questions on access to alcohol and marijuana along with student perception of substance use frequency were also included in the survey.

SEARCH Institute of

Minneapolis helped design the survey and recently provided results which will be shared at an upcoming Todd County CAD meetings. Community members are invited to attend these meetings, on the fourth Tuesday of the month, held at NJPA in Staples. The next meeting is Tuesday, April 24, 11:45 a.m.-1 p..m. at NJPA. Todd County CAD plans to use the results in their county wide strategic planning. If your business or organization is interested in a presentation of survey results, contact Connie Burns, Health Education Coordinator at connie.burns@co.todd. mn.us or 320-732-2221.

Letters to the Editor

Response to school issues

In last week's Staples World, a resident of our school district submitted a letter to the editor in which he comments on several items relating to your school board. then, in his last paragraph, he writes, "I am hoping there will be a response to this letter. You know how to reach me and if there is a response, please tell me in person. I am accessible to all."

I had a lengthy and productive conversation with this individual, whom I know to be a good guy, and this is a portion of what we discussed.

First, the building of a new school, which you say you agree with, is not at the expense of the students and staff. It is the desire of the board to reduce the expense and inconvenience of maintaining three separate buildings, which over time, will reduce expenses and save money for all of Next, there is no intent to cut meal programs for the needy. The budget reductions proposed by the staff and approved by the board contain no provision whatsoever to do that. None. That was apparently discussed in preliminary staff meetings.

You insinuate that school board members are misrepresenting the enrollment numbers "to make a name for themselves." I have been on the board for about 15 months. In that time, whether at a board meeting or public meetings to discuss the wishes of our district residents, I have never once known of a board member to incorrectly state, either the total student population or the open enrollment figures for our schools. Another issue or two may have been referenced, but since I was not on the board at the time, I will not offer comment.

Right now, in a phone conversation, an email chat or a discussion taking place in a Staples or Motley parking lot, there is false information, partial information or flat out lies being spewed and absorbed by people who apparently would rather not trouble themselves by knowing the facts. The damage that this does to our schools is measurable, and I know of parents who have taken their children out of this district based 100 percent on false information.

In the near future, your board will be presenting you with information that you will be using to determine the future, and the fate, of this district and our kids. Your school board was elected, by you, to represent you. Our phone numbers and email addresses are in this news-

We had meetings to gather your input on the future of our district. Now, we will have meetings for you, and with you, to implement your wishes. Please find out what is really being discussed before you make comments in the newspaper or anywhere else. Know what was decided at a board meeting before you repeat what you heard was decided.

Having the correct information is essential for you going forward. Please try to get that information from someone who knows what it is.

Greg Frisk Motley, Minn.

The protest

As I read in the Staples World about the kids leaving the school building to go out and protest gun violence, a few thoughts came to mind.

I wonder how many our students know about the Second Amendment and what it stands for? I wonder if those who were protesting really understood what they were protesting? Do these young adults know what state and federal laws we currently have in place to curtail gun violence?

Do they know about the events that took place before the Parkland shooting happened? That the FBI failed to do anything about this kid? Do they know that the Parkland Police had been called numerous times to this kid's home and nothing was really done? What about the sheriff's deputy who should have entered the building and did nothing?

What about the school shooting that happened in Maryland? The one where the school resource officer was able neutralize the threat before a lot more students were killed. You sure don't hear much about that in the news. How many of the protesters knew about

Look at the areas with the strictest gun laws. Violent crime is up. While in the states with less strict gun laws, crime is down. There are statistical reports out there that prove factual evidence extensively showing how crime can be reduced with pro gun control implementations.

This walkout was a highly publicized event. Why would our administrators allow these kids outside of the school building to become targets? What's not to say some deranged person was not in the area to hurt these kids? In my mind, this was very irresponsible.

If there is a room with a 100 people without guns and 100 people in another room with guns, which room do you think the person looking to commit an evil act is going to choose? Since 1950 nearly all mass shootings were committed in gun free zones.

In ending my thoughts I would like to say shame on the Staples World for not talking to the students who didn't walk out. Also shame on Mike Schmidt for just talking to the kids who protested rather than the whole student body. Way to take sides.

Eric Wallace Staples, Minn

EDITOR'S NOTE: After this letter was submitted. the St. Mary's County (Maryland) Sheriff's office released a report on the school shooting. The shooter died from a self-inflicted gun shot after being confronted by the school resource officer. The sheriff's office said it was not a random shooting incident, as there was one intended victim and one single shot fired before the confrontation.

Rural call completion bill signed into law

By U.S. Senator Amy Klobuchar, D-MN

Minnesotans across our state are having trouble completing phone calls: a small business owner in Brainerd losing out to competitors because she can't reach customers; a Fergus Falls elementary school struggling to alert parents about a closure before a big storm hits; an on-call surgeon in Randall who never receives the call from a nearby hospital for an emergency surgery. Persistent phone call completion problems can be a serious inconvenience in rural Minnesota and for some, a dropped call can have much more dangerous consequences.

That's why, as a member of the Senate Commerce Committee, I've made better phone service for rural America a priority. In oversight hearings, I've consistently pressed the FCC to take action. And it's why Republican Senator John Thune of South Dakota and I led the Improving Rural Call Quality and Reliability Act to get to the root of rural call completion problems. With bipartisan compromise and cooperation, we were able to move this bill through Congress and get it signed into law by the President.

This law directs the FCC to establish basic commonsense standards for providers that transmit voice calls and create a registry for least cost-routers. It's a reform that's critical to providing our rural communities with consistent high-quality phone service.

I've heard from people across Minnesota about the headaches caused by delayed calls, poor voice quality, a lack of caller ID information, and calls that are never connected because some phone routers fail to connect or drop calls in rural areas. This is simply unacceptable. A person's ability to make or receive a call shouldn't be determined by his or her zip code.

Telecommunications technology has made strides over the past decade, but that progress hasn't always led to better service for rural America. For years, rural consumers have faced call completion problems rarely experienced by those living in metropolitan areas. These call completion issues often occur when carriers choose "least-cost routing services" in order to save money when providing phone service in rural areas where the cost to deliver a call is higher. We can't allow this to continue - rural customers deserve the same access to quality communications as everyone else.

A 2012 test call project found that nearly one in five calls placed to rural areas were delayed, of poor quality, or incomplete. And for years, consumers have had few options but to take their stories of incomplete calls to the Federal Communications Commission (FCC).

Take the owners of Mattracks, a truck track manufacturer based in Karlstad. They've faced call completion issues so severe that their customers were forced to buy products from competitors. We should be making it easier for rural businesses to succeed, not hurting their bottom line.

Minnesota's rural communities play a crucial role in powering our state's economy. When we hold large national telephone networks accountable for using quality, registered routers, we can help make networks more reliable and ensure that businesses compete, families can stay connected and emergency responders can count on their phone calls being complet-

Restrictions needed

Guns don't kill people. People kill people. Cars kill people. Should we take away cars?

Really? These are your arguements for allowing anyone and everyone to own assault weapons?

In Minnesota, to get a driver's license, you must take classroom training. pass a written test, provide adequate identification, practice driving with a certified driver educator or responsible adult for at least three months, then pass a driving test with a state driver's examiner. Then, if you are under 21, you will receive a provisional license until you reach the age of 21. Any breaking of driving laws can result in fines, suspension or revocation of your license. These requirements are only so you can drive, not own a vehicle.

To own a vehicle, you have to have the vehicle registered and insured. The insurance is in case you harm someone with vour vehicle. You need to purchase additional insurance to protect yourself and vehicle. But your vehicle and driver's license can still be taken from you.

Your driver's license and vehicle can also be taken from you for medical reasons. If you are a danger to others, you cannot

Wouldn't it be nice if some of these same restrictions were applied to guns? Maybe our kids could go back to having nightmares about the monsters under shot at school. (And can you imagine a car being built and sold to the general population whose main purpose was to kill people? I sure hope

Open letter to Dave Anglin

You are an incredible coach! We've seen the hard work, support and care you've invested in our son Jeremy, not only in his wrestling years here at Staples-Motley but in the years since he wrestled in your program.

Dave, you have been a wonderful mentor, coach, friend to Jeremy since we moved here in 2013. When the opportunity for our family to move to Staples-Motley became available, Jeremy was so excited to move here and wrestle in your program, he moved in with my parents early so he could attend the Summer Wrestling camp with his new team. You welcomed him on to your team, made him feel at home the very first day.

Without your leadership and coaching Gil and I both

Ban snowmobiles

I hope the snowbanks

soon melt, so the snowmobilers can put their machines away for the season. I hope they had fun riding where ever there was snow, even if it wasn't on a designated trail but someone's front lawn. We've had snowmobiles turning around in our yard and driving over planted trees. We put up a fence. Now they ride across front lawns, the boulevard snowbanks, landing on my cleared tarred driveway, breaking chunks off the edge of the tar. The tar chunks ended up in my snowblower causing damages to the first stage augers and breaking belts. Expensive repairs. This winter the snowmobilers tore up the gravel in my driveway. Now there's loose stones, just waiting to do damage to my snowblower. They also ran over a flower planter. Everywhere I walk in town, I see evidence of snowmobile damage, scratches to sidewalks and on the tarred streets.

When they ride across my property without my permission and do damage, it's trespassing. Because they cannot ride on designated trails. I feel the city should ban them completely.

Cheryl Blasing Motley, Minn.

Don Wedll to speak on Native American history

Talk is at Old Wadena Society annual meeting

Don Wedll, former commissioner of Education and Natural Resources, Mille Lacs band of Ojibwe, will be a guest speaker at the Old Wadena Society's annual meeting on Sunday, April 8, at the Northern Pacific Depot in Staples.

The presentation, which begins at 1 p.m., will focus on Native American history in the Staples/Wadena areas, as well as understanding its lasting influ-

"Hear Don talk about the fascinating history of the Crow Wing River, who Chief Wadena was, the drama that unfolded from the interaction of the early French fur traders and the Native people of our area; and how this past influenced such issues like Mille Lacs hunting and fishing rights," according to a press release.

Wedll grew up on a small farm in Elizabeth (near Fergus Falls), and upon graduating from high school, went on to attend Moorhead State University where he studied math.

After college, Wedll worked at the Mille Lacs Indian Reservation as a math tutor. He was also the Director of Education for the reservation and the tribal school reservation.

In the early 1980s, he was asked to develop a Natural Resources Department at the reservation. Wedll also worked as the Chief of Police at the reservation.

He left the reservation in 2008, to do environmental work in Alaska by the Bering Sea. Wedll worked with 59 different remote villages, he said.

When Wedll retired, he moved back to the Mille Lacs area, where he currently resides. He is a member of the Friends of the Old Crow Wing; and has studied extensively about the history of the Staples/ Wadena area and the relationship of the Ojibwe in Mid-Central Minnesota. He looks forward to sharing that knowledge at the upcoming event in Staples.

Making way for new trees

Approximately 10 trees were cut down recently at Living Legacy Garden in Staples. According to Hannah Barrett, Research Coordinator at Central Lakes College's Ag and Energy Center, the red pine trees were removed because they were mature and some of the tops had been broken off. In addition, it was decided it would be best to remove them before they became an issue, possibly hitting lights and plants if they were blown over during a wind storm. The plan is to replace them this spring with some of the conifer trees located at the CLC farm. Some of the varieties being considered include white pine, balsam fir, white spruce, white cedar; and deciduous trees such as maples, willows, oaks and birches. (Staples World photos by Dawn Timbs)

Ben Winchester to speak in Eagle Bend

Ben Winchester from the University of Minnesota will be returning to Todd County, Monday, April 9 at 1 p.m., at the Hilltop Regional Kitchen, Eagle Bend.

Winchester was in Todd County in January 2017, presenting his research on the topic "Rewriting the Rural Narrative." His presentation, sponsored by Citizens Against Drugs (CAD) was very well received and post presentation surveys indicated that community members would like him to return for a more in depth discussion.

City and county officials, are being invited along with community members for this return presentation he gave in January,

"Rewriting the Rural Narrative - It seems the rural story has already been told. Small towns keep getting smaller. Churches, schools, clinics, businesses and now post offices, have closed their doors as the lucky few migrate out to the big cities."

"This deficit framework dominates how we discuss and envision our rural communities. However, the story of rural America since 1970 is rich and diverse, with positive trends occurring under the radar.'

"Learn how these important positive changes have been occurring across the rural landscape that require us to rewrite the narrative of rural community change."

Winchester will offer time for audience reflection and idea generation.

For additional information call Verna Toenyan at 320-815-4301. To reserve a meal at the Hilltop Regional Kitchen, which is served at 11:55 a.m., call 218-738-5563.

Author Linda Koutsky at the Wadena Depot

A program featuring author and book artist Linda Koutsky will be held Thursday, April 12 at 7 p.m. at the Wadena City Depot. Linda Koutsky and Kathryn Strand Koutsky are the authors of "Tempt Me: The Fine Art of Minnesota Cooking". The book is a recent release from the Minnesota Historical Society with first-rate illustrations, vintage advertising, by-gone recipes and the storied history of Minnesota's food industries. The pages of "Tempt Me" offer a true feast for the senses and to make it even more appetizing, Linda will bring some samples to taste.

This program is the first in this year's Spring Legacy Series, presented by the Wadena County Historical Society in collaboration with the Wadena Library and funded by a grant from Kitchigami Library Sys-

Other programs in the Spring Legacy Series include "Alice in France" by author Nancy Weber on May 11 and "Minnesota Moxie" by the author Ben Weber on June 17. This program is also a collaboration with the Wadena Librarv.

Other programs this spring include "Minnesota Voices" held each month, the third Thursday at 12 p.m. at the Wadena Museum. The April 19 program will celebrate National Poetry Month with readings by Minnesota poets.

The Wadena County Historical Society's semiannual meeting will be held this spring on April 25 at 7 p.m. The featured speaker will be Denis Gardner, director of the Minnesota State Historic Preservation Office. All the programs are free and open to the public.

For information contact the Wadena County Historical Society at 218-631-9079 or email: 603wchs@arvig. net or visit the website: www.WadenaCountyHistory.org.

Homeowners now encouraged to compost, not burn tions coming soon. In an effort to prevent wildfires, the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources urges woodland property owners to compost their yard waste rather than burn it.

"Burning should be a last resort for yard wasteespecially in April and May, when wildfire risk is especially high," said Casey McCoy, fire prevention supervisor. "Composting prevents wildfires and reduces air pollution, so it's the safest possible way to manage yard debris.'

The University of Minnesota Extension offers a step-by-step guide to composting yard waste on its website.

For landowners who feel they must burn yard debris, now is the time to do it. That's because annual burning restrictions will take effect immediate-

Annual burning restric- ly after snowmelt occurs, which will happen soon in parts of Minnesota. Three inches of snow significantly reduces the chances that a fire will escape and burn unintended areas or endanger lives, homes, and neighboring properties. If a yard waste fire does escape, the homeowner is responsible for any damage it does to nearby property.

Although a DNR burning permit is not required in many locations where there is sufficient snow be sure to check local regulations prior to burning. Once burning restrictions are issued, debris burning will be banned, and no permits issued, until further notice.

For information and daily updates on open burning restrictions and current fire danger, visit mndnr. gov/burnrestrictions.

DNR offers 'I Can!' programs

Registration began March 27, for the 2018, DNR I Can! programs that teach camping, paddling, mountain biking and fishing skills at Minnesota state parks and trails.

The I Can! series is for beginners of all ages to learn outdoor skills. The programs start in June and continue through the end of August.

• I Can Camp! - Develop) fire-starting and camp cooking skills, sleep on comfy air mattresses in tents, large enough to accommodate two adults and up to three children.

• I Can Paddle! - Get out on the water for a sea kayaking adventure on Lake Superior or a guided canoeing or kayaking experience on a Minnesota lake or river. For ages 12 through adult.

• I Can Mountain Bike! - Learn riding techniques and explore mountain bike trails with guides from the Cuyuna Lakes Mountain Bike Club. For ages 10 through adult.

• I Can Fish! - Experience the fun of casting into the water and the excitement when there's a tug on the line. Children under age 12 are free.

The I Can! series also includes Archery in the Parks programs, which are free and need no reservations.

"We provide all the gear along with friendly instructors who show you how to use it," said Erika Rivers, director of Minnesota state parks and trails. "Our goal is to make it easy for busy families to discover the fun of spending time outdoors together."

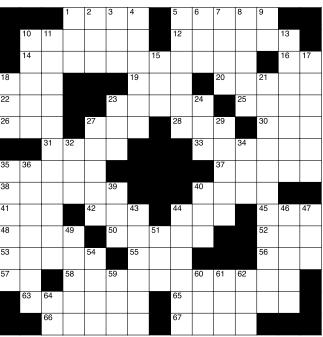

For more information, including the cost of programs, dates, times, locations, and minimum age requirements visit www.mndnr.gov/ican or contact the DNR Information Center at info.dnr@state.mn.us or 888-6466367 (8 a.m.-8 p.m. Monday through Friday, 9 a.m.-1 p.m. Saturday).

The program series is made possible with funding from the Parks and Trails Fund, created after voters approved the Clean Water, Land and Legacy Amendment in November 2008. The Parks and Trails Fund receives 14.25 percent of the threeeighths percent sales tax revenue that may only be spent to support parks and trails of regional or stateride significance.

The program received a Government Innovation Award in 2015. More than 15,400 people have participated in these programs since they were first offered in 2010.

April 1 deadline to submit poetry

April 1 is the deadline for area poets to submit an original poem which may be selected for reading at "Minnesota Voices" on Thursday, April 19 at 12 p.m. at the Wadena County Museum as part of National Poetry Month.

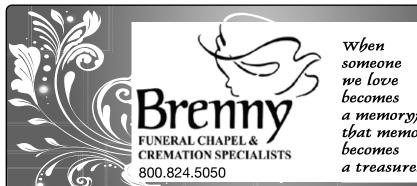

Between 10 to 15 poems will be selected by the panel. The guidelines for submission are as follows: Only poems written by the poet will be considered. The poem should be no more than 30 lines. The poem may be in any form: rhymed, free verse, prose, rap, etc. The poem may have been previously published. The poets selected will be invited to read their poem at the event on April 19. You are not required to be present in order to be selected. Instead, the poet may elect to have the poem read by a member of the panel. Submissions should include name, address, email, the title of the poem and the complete text of the poem. Indicate whether you will be present to read the poem on April 19. Submissions must be postmarked or received by April 1 to be eligible. Poets selected will be notified by Submit via email to:

603wchs@arvig.net or mail to: Wadena County Historical Society, 603 Jefferson Street North, Wadena, MN

Question: How and what does law enforcement do when they come across someone who is deaf or has hearing disabilities?

Answer: This is a good question and as a State Trooper I've come across situations dealing with this on traffic stops, motorist assists and crashes. Minnesota's deaf and hard of hearing community recently helped create a two-way communication card. They provided significant input in the card's creation, identifying symbols that would be most helpful to them in communicating. The Departments of Public Safety and Human Services collaborated to produce the finished product.

A deaf or hard of hearing person can keep the two-sided, laminated card in their car and bring it out to show to law enforcement when necessary. The card features a set of icons the person can point to suggesting the best way to communicate (such as writing or lip-reading) and another set to indicate what help they need. Hospital? Tow truck? Directions? They're all there on the card.

The law enforcement officer can also use it to communicate by pointing to the icon indicating what information they need, such as a driver's license or insurance card. If the officer has pulled over the deaf or hard of hearing person, they can point to icons such as the speed limit sign or traffic light on the back of the card to explain why. There's also a section to help explain what happens next, with icons for things like warnings and tickets.

Along with the icons are helpful tips for communicating, such as, "Maintain eye contact with me while speaking" and "Shining a flashlight in my face will make it hard for me to understand you." The card ends with a list of things a deaf or hard of hearing person might need if arrested or brought in for questions, like assistive technology for phone calls and a sign language interpreter.

So although traffic stops and flat tires still happen, this communication card can make the interaction safer, easier, and more productive for law enforcement and deaf and hard of hearing people alike.

In 1995, a state law was revised to allow NJPA to expand services to cities, counties and non-profits. They changed their name to reflect the change and became the North Central Service Cooperative. The offices moved to what once was Donovan's Bowling Alley and Supper Club.

In 2004, the the name was changed to National Joint Powers Alliance.

In 2011, due to organization expansion, NJPA needed more space, and built a new 22,000 square foot building on the site of the Carter Ringer Manufacturing Plant in Staples.

In 2016, another addition was needed, adding 32,000 square feet of office and meeting space to the building.

As of March, 2018, NJPA reports approximately 140 employees, with more positions expected to be filled this summer.

The rapid growth of NJPA has been spurred by the Cooperative Purchasing Solutions department. Because of their joint powers authority, NJPA is able to develop purchasing contracts for its members across the country. NJPA has contracts with hundreds of manufacturing and service industries, called vendors, to supply the members, which can be any school, city, county, state, or non-profit.

It saves time and money for the members to have the already made purchasing contracts, so they don't have to write a request and send out a bid. It saves time and money for the vendors because they don't have to put in a bid on every request, as their contract

What are Veteran burial allowances?

By David A. Anderson

Wadena County Veteran Service Officer

VA burial allowances are flat rate monetary benefits generally paid at the maximum amount authorized by law for an eligible veteran's burial and funeral costs. A VA regulation change in 2014 simplified the program to pay eligible survivors quickly and efficiently.

Eligible surviving spouses of record are paid automatically upon notification of the veteran's death, without the need to submit a claim. The VA may grant additional benefits, including the plot or interment allowance and transportation allowance, if it receives a claim for these

Who's eligible? If the burial benefit has not been automatically paid to the surviving spouse, VA will pay the first living person to file a claim of those listed below:

• Veteran's surviving spouse; OR

- The survivor of a legal union* between the deceased veteran and the survivor; OR
- The veteran's children, regardless of age; OR
- The veteran's parents or surviving parent; OR
- The executor or administrator of the estate of the

*Legal union means a formal relationship between the decedent and the survivor that existed on the date of the veteran's death, which was recognized under the law of the state in which the couple formalized the relationship and evidenced by the state's issuance of documentation memorializing the relationship.

The veteran must also have been discharged under conditions other than dishonorable. In addition, at least one of the following conditions must be met: • The veteran died as a result of a service-connected disability, OR • The veteran was receiving VA pension or compensation at the time of death, OR • The veteran was entitled to receive VA pension or compensation, but decided instead to receive his or her full military retirement or disability pay, OR • The veteran died while hospitalized by VA, or while receiving care under VA contract at a non-VA facility, OR • The veteran died while traveling under proper authorization and at VA expense to or from a specified place for the purpose of examination, treatment or care, OR • The veteran had an original or reopened claim for VA compensation or pension pending at the time of death and would have been entitled to benefits from a date prior to the date of death, OR • The veteran died on or after Oct. 9, 1996, while a patient at a VA-approved state nursing home.

Disabilities determined by VA to be related to your military service can lead to monthly non-taxable compensation, enrollment in the VA health care system, a 10-point hiring preference for federal employment and other important benefits. Ask your VA representative or Veterans Service Organization representative about Disability Compensation, Pension, Health Care, Caregiver Program, Career Services, Educational Assistance, Home Loan Guaranty, Insurance and/or Dependents and Survivors' Benefits.

How much does VA pay? Service-Connected Death

o If the veteran died on or after Sept. 11, 2001, the maximum service-connected burial allowance is $2,000.

• If the veteran died before Sept. 11, 2001, the maximum service-connected burial allowance is $1,500.

• If the veteran is buried in a VA national cemetery, VA may reimburse some or all of the cost of transporting the deceased Veteran's remains.

Non-Service-Connected Death

• If the veteran died on or after Oct. 1, 2017, VA will pay a $300 burial allowance and $762 for a plot.

• If the veteran died on or after Oct. 1, 2016, but before Oct. 1, 2017, VA will pay a $300 burial allowance and $749 for a plot.

• If the veteran died on or after Oct. 1, 2015, but before Oct. 1, 2016, VA will pay a $300 burial allowance and $747 for a plot. Effective Oct. 1, 2011, there are higher nonservice-connected death rates payable if the veteran was hospitalized by VA when he or she died.

• If the veteran died on or after Oct. 1, 2017, VA will pay $762 burial allowance and $762 for a plot.

• If the veteran died on or after Oct. 1, 2016, VA will pay a $749 burial allowance and $749 for a plot.

• If the veteran died on or after Oct. 1, 2015, but before Oct. 1, 2016, VA will pay a $747 burial allowance and $747 for a plot.

• If the death occurred while the veteran was properly hospitalized by VA, or under VA contracted nursing home care, some or all of the costs for transporting the Veteran's remains may be reimbursed.

• Note: If the veteran dies while traveling at VA expense for the purpose of examination, treatment or care, VA will pay burial, funeral, plot or interment allowances, and transportation expenses.

Unclaimed remains

• If a veteran dies and their remains are unclaimed, the entity responsible for the burial of the veteran would be entitled to a $300 burial allowance.

• If the veteran is buried in a VA national cemetery, VA may reimburse the cost of transporting the deceased veteran's remains. VA may also reimburse for the cost of a plot.

How can you apply? You can apply by filling out VA Form 21P-530, Application for Burial Benefits. You should attach a copy of the veteran's military discharge document (DD 214 or equivalent) and a death certificate. If you're claiming transportation expenses, attach a receipt for the expenses paid.

You can call us toll-free within the U.S. by dialing 1-800-827-1000. If you are located in the local dialing area of a VA regional office, you can also call us by checking your local telephone directory. For the hearing impaired, our TDD number is 711.

Pension and Fiduciary? You should mail your application to the VA regional office located in your state. You can obtain the mailing address for VA regional offices by accessing our locations site. The address is also located in the government pages of your telephone book under "United States Government, Veterans."

As always see your local County Veterans Service Officer if you have any questions. You can contact your local VSO at 218-631-7617 or by email at david.anderson@

Two-vehicle crash near Pillager claims life of Cushing woman

Snow and ice were factors in a two-vehicle crash that claimed the life of a Cushing woman just after 5 p.m. on March 26.

The Minnesota State Patrol reports that the incident took place east of Pillager at Hwy 210 and 11th Ave SW in Sylvan Township, Cass County.

According to their report, 82-year-old Ronald Leyde of Cushing was driving a 2010 Honda Civic, westbound on Hwy 210, when he lost control and crossed the center line and was struck by a 2013 Chevrolet Silverado pickup truck that was eastbound on Hwy 210. The pickup truck was driven by 40-year-old Adam Fulton of Pillager.

Sandra Lee Leyde, 73, of Cushing, was pronounced dead at the scene. She was a passenger in the Honda Civic, along with 39-yearold Shaun Leyde of Cushing. Both Ronald Leyde and Shaun Leyde were transported to St. Joseph's Hospital in Brainerd where they were treated for nonlife threatening injuries.

The driver of the pickup truck was transferred to St. Joseph's Hospital in Brainerd and treated for non-life threatening injuries. His passengers, Connor Fulton, 9; and Landon Fulton, 12, were not iniured

All of the occupants of both vehicles were wearing seat belts, state patrol said. Alcohol was not involved. Other responders included the Cass County Sheriff's March 18 - The MPD issued a speeding citation to Briana Fischer, 26.

March 17 - The MPD received a call from a parent who stated her 10-yearold daughter was refusing to buckle up in the car so that they could return home. Caller stated that the daughter also kicked the door and the window of the back seat. The MPD responded and proceeded to sit the child in the back seat, put the seat belt on her, and then followed their vehicle a short way out of Motley.

March 17 - The MPD responded to a domestic situation at the 400 block of Pine Ave. S, Motley.

March 25 - The MPD paged out the Motley Fire and Rescue Dept. and Staples Ambulance for a small child with his thumb stuck in the crib.

March 18, 21 - The MCSO issued speeding citations to Julie Belfiore, 56; and Amber Dahl, 21.

March 19 - The MCSO responded to a report of a vehicle in the median of Hwy 10 near Cushing. Upon arrival, the deputy made contact with the driver who stated he was driving from St. Cloud to Cushing and fell asleep, causing him to drive into the median where he got stuck in the snow. No signs of impairment noticed.

March 18 - The MCSO received a report of suspicious activity near the 30000 block of Hwy 10, Motley. Caller stated she thought she saw someone walking along the woods off of Hwy 10 near Ridge Road. The responding deputy was unable to locate.

March 18 - The MCSO received a call regarding a male and female screaming at each other at an apartment at the 400 block of Pine Ave. S., Motley. The responding deputy stood outside the door and could hear a femaile screaming and hollering. He then knocked on the door, which was answered by the male party who stated the female was out of control. A one-year-old child was present, the deputy noted.

March 17 - The MCSO received a report of suspicious activity at a cabin at the 4000 block of 290th St., Cushing. Caller stated that someone had been in his cabin but he couldn't find anything missing or dam-

March 17 - The MCSO reports that while driving on Aztec Rd near Ridge Road in Motley, the deputy found an IPhone lying on the shoulder of the roadway. The phone was locked but still had battery life.

Photos were placed on Facebook with an attempt to locate the owner.

March 17 - The MCSO received a call from Cass County requesting assistance in locating a male who had left his foster house and was walking down Hwy 64 towards Motley. The responding deputy arrived and found the subject walking by the DOT office. The Cass County deputy took care of the situation while the MCSO deputy provided cover.

The donations had been collected by the students as part of an all school challenge (4th - 7th grades as well as Little Cardinals Academy), with the class collecting the most pounds being awarded a party complete with pizza and root beer floats.

Taking first place in the challenge was the 6th grade class which collected 550 pounds of grocery items.

The event was organized by sixth grade teacher Sarah Decker and JCI Staples (Jaycees) member Paige Lenk. JCI Staples partnered with ISC (Motley-Staples Middle School Student Council) to put on the food drive. Several local businesses also donated items for the pizza and root beer float party. These included Tower Pizza, Giovanni's, Dairy Queen, Burger King, Jon's Family Foods, Unity Bank and Lakewood Health System.

Comments from school staff indicated that this was the most successful food drive the students had been a part of to date. Lenk added that it was fun to help run the event and to see how well it turned out.

Caution when using public Wi-Fi

From the Office of Minnesota Attorney General Lori Swanson

While public Wi-Fi networks (or Wi-Fi "hotspots") offer free and convenient access to the internet in public spaces, other network users may be able to watch your activity online and obtain your passwords and account information, putting you at risk of theft or identity theft.

How can someone get my information using public Wi-Fi networks? Criminals can use software from the internet to monitor your web browsing activity and view anything that appears on your device's screen while using the public Wi-Fi network. In addition, hackers may use public Wi-Fi networks to remotely access people's smartphones, tablets and computers to install malware or spyware that can transmit information from the device directly to the hacker.

What information is at risk? Almost everything on your device, from user names, passwords and email addresses to the apps installed, credit card and bank account information, Social Security numbers and birth dates can be vulnerable. If a hacker acquires your account credentials (user name and password), this information may be used to steal additional information or money from your accounts.

What can I do to protect myself?

If you use a public Wi-Fi network, choose the most secure network available. If you aren't sure whether the network is secure, ask an employee. Common secure network types include WEP, WPA, and WPA2 (the strongest). Even encrypted networks aren't a guarantee that your device will be safe while using the network, however, as some hackers may be able to bypass a secure network's encryption methods.

If you send personal information through a website using a public Wi-Fi network, make sure the website is encrypted (encryption converts the information to a jumbled code that reverts back to its original state once it reaches its destination). You can determine if a website is encrypted by looking at the web address. If it begins with "https," then it is encrypted (the "s" stands for "secure").

Check for encryption on every webpage where you send or receive information—even within the same website—as some pages may be encrypted while others are not.

If you log-in to an account using a public Wi-Fi network, sign out as soon as you are done using the account. Otherwise, someone could access your account long after you were accessing it.

Keep your software up-to-date and never turn your firewall off. Your device will notify you when an update is available. Install anti-spyware/antimalware software (there are several reputable products available online for free or with free trial periods).

Identify any public Wi-Fi network that you connect to as a "Public Network" and turn off file sharing on your computer. Consider disabling your wireless connection if you are using your device in a place with a public Wi-Fi network and do not need internet access.

Look into using a virtual private network ("VPN"), or other add-ons or plug-ins which encrypt information between your device and the Internet.

A word on mobile phones and apps

Since mobile apps may have limited or no encryption, it can be best to avoid using them to relay important information on a public Wi-Fi network. If you have to use a mobile app to send sensitive information, only use networks you know are secure or a 3G or 4G network. Some smart phones have a feature that automatically connects them to any available network. Turn off this feature in the phone's settings, or turn the phone to 'airplane mode.'

Steps to take if your online account is hacked. You might not realize your online account was hacked right away. Once you discover the intrusion, however, take the following

1. Change your password immediately. Hackers may change your password, preventing you from accessing your account. If you are unable to access your account, contact the website directly and it can assist you in restoring your account.

2. Contact your bank or credit card companies immediately and let them know your account may be compromised. Monitor the activity on the account for any fraudulent transactions (in some cases, hackers may not use your information right away, so it can be helpful to regularly monitor your account).

3. Contact your friends and family to let them know your account has been hacked. Hackers may try to gain access to your e-mail contact list and send emails from your account purporting to be from you. Notifying family and friends that your account has been compromised may help protect them from hackers.

Open water outlook is icy, dicey

By Steve Carney

Seems like winter's not going away any time soon as we continue to suffer through cold temperatures and rounds of snow.

This has been the winter from hell but we need to have a positive outlook as we head into April. Because of the extended winter, anglers need to make some adjustments as we head into the open water season. Some thoughts....

My prediction is that there'll be ice on the big waters up north for the inland opener. Lakes such as Leech, Winnibigoshish, Mille Lacs, Gull and Lake of the Woods could easily still have rafts of floating ice during early May. I've seen these conditions before and it might be wise to have a Plan B. We're still making ice as I write this and it doesn't look promis-

Where will they bite?

Opener 2018 will be about making the correct lake decision at the last minute.

The 2018 opener will be the perfect time to think about the shallower, southern and western Minnesota lakes that typically have earlier ice-outs than the northern lakes. Many of these so-called prairie lakes feature water no deeper than 20 feet and are usually very good come mid-May. I depend on these shallower lakes during the first few weeks of the open water season and have found they're a much better bet than trying to fish a deeper, northern lake during late Spring conditions.

Fishing the border lakes of South Dakota and Minnesota are a no-brainer for success during the inland opener on May 12. These lakes are shallow and have currents which allows the water to warm sooner and fishing in May is like fishing in June up north. The Glacial Lakes region around Waubay and Watertown are also good options. The Missouri River near Chamberlain will have walleye in the spawning mode in May while we still have ice on the lakes. I'm planning on making a last minute decision and heading west, deciding on the lake probably a few days before the opener. It's all about the weather, ice-out dates and location.

Fish and politics cook up an unpalatable chowder

I'm as ardent a believer in the democratic system of government as anyone. But sometimes you have to admit it has its weak points. Winston Churchill, one of the most important world leaders of my parents' generation, put it well when he said that "Democracy is the worst form of government, except for all the others." Meaning, of course, that while democracy has its failings, oth-- 0 er forms Inside the of govern-Outdoors ment are worse.

In a democracy like ours, the people we elect to represent us can propose just about anything. If enough of their

Mike Rahn fellow

A good example is legislation currently up for consideration by our state senators and representatives at the Capitol in St. Paul. Part of that legislation would let county commissioners decide which species of fish the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR) can stock in lakes that are entirely within that county's borders. Given the fact that any lake with public access is considered public water and is free to be used responsibly by all Minnesotans, this is a bold step.

As is so often the case, there's more to the story. This proposal, which would give 87 different county boards of commissioners the last word in Minnesota fish stocking, is a tactical move. It's secondary to a proposal opposing the DNR's plans to expand its program of stocking muskies in Minnesota waters. The legislation would prevent the DNR from stocking muskies in any new waters, and funds that had been planned for such use would be redirected to stocking walleye.

At its most basic, this is a matter of personal preference. There are far more Minnesotans who self-identify as walleve fishermen than as muskie fishermen, though some are enthusiastic about both. Tourism enters the picture, too. Some fear that stocking this top-of-the-food-chain predator will reduce walleye-catching success, and cash-spending visitors will become ex-visitors.

Just to add another dimension to objections to muskie stocking, some have even contended that stocking muskies will discourage people from swimming. Rare, but widely-publicized incidents of gashes suffered while swimming - rightly or wrongly attributed to muskies - have added a Big Bad Wolf element to the debate.

Muskie enthusiasts, many of whom are extremely avid - pursuing this fish almost to the exclusion of others - are solidly behind the DNR. The DNR claims it is only proposing muskie stocking where it confidently believes the overall fish populations won't be harmed. The agency points to fish census data on lakes where both muskies and walleye populations are thriving. There are certainly lakes where both species have coexisted since long before Minnesota had a conservation agency to manage them. That said, it's certainly true that lakes and rivers can be different from one another in many ways, favoring some species more than others.

What makes the issue so intractable is the fact that the good or bad of stocking muskies in new waters can't be tested in a laboratory. The only laboratory for proving the wisdom or folly of wider stocking is the real thing. And then, it goes without saying, you may not be able to put the genie back in the bottle.

I have a lot of faith in Minnesota's fisheries professionals. But not absolute faith. There've been some high-profile mistakes. The latest to come to light is a four decade program of stocking Lake Superior streams with a western Canadian race of rainbow trout. It has interbred with the wild steelhead rainbow strain there, and diluted the genetics of that far more desirable fish. To its credit, the DNR conducted the research that revealed this problem, and has responded by halting the program. In the DNR's defense, it should also be remembered that all science including fisheries science - is in part trial-and-error, and learning from those Nevertheless, whatever the wisdom = or not = of expanding the number of muskie waters in Minnesota, it's hard to see how giving county commissioners the power to make fisheries management decisions could be the answer. Some of these wellmeaning citizens may have scientific expertise, or the gumption and curiosity to inform themselves. Others wouldn't know a shiner from a black eye.

The idea that county commissioners would have the power to decide what fish get stocked, where, and how many or how few, is frightening. That would be like having 87 separate fisheries departments, each subject to local prejudices and in all probability guided not by science, but by local politics. That might be another example of democracy at its worst.

The promise of Easter

It is no coincidence that the celebration of Easter takes place each year in early spring, commemorating the resurrection of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. For Easter is a celebration of rebirth, and what better time to celebrate this than when the earth is springing back into life. The new life of spring reminds us that this world is eternally productive and creative. The apparent lifelessness of winter is only an illusion. Sleeping just beneath the surface, is life and more life, awaiting God's gentle touch to reawaken it. In the same way, Easter reminds us that the death of our bodies is an illusion. Beneath it is life and more life. The Bible tells us that God so loved the world the He gave us His one and only Son, that whoever believes in Him shall not perish but have eternal life. We will one day shed our bodies, as the trees shed their leaves and snakes shed their skins, and we will be reborn into life everlasting.

And I give them eternal life, and they shall never perish neither shall anyone snatch them out of My hand.
