Duane R. Lund Award for Lifetime Achievement TIM RICE

Since 1980 Tim Rice has been a leader for the Lakewood Health System and the entire greater Staples Motley Area. Staples Mayor Chris Etzler stated that "Tim brought a vision to this community 38 years ago that has created not only one of the top health systems in the state, but in the whole country. The same vision can be seen through the success of many community groups and organizations he has been involved in. Tim's contribution to the wellbeing of the Staples Motley communities goes much further than Lakewood."

Tim was born and raised on a farm in Milaca. When asked why he did not stay on the farm, he said his dad valued education very highly. They did not even do chores before school because dad wanted them to be well rested and prepared to do their best at school. No son was going to take over the farm until they received a college education.

Tim graduated from the Minneapolis Business College in 1974 and also has received his Bachelor of Arts degree and Masters in management degree from St. Scholastica. His first job after college was chief financial officer at Renville County Hospital in Olivia. He became chief executive officer in 1977. His parents moved to Nisswa after retiring and an opportunity came open in Staples in 1980 that would bring him closer to them. He has been here ever since. Hello, Readers,

Women's Equality Day commemorates 26th August 1920 when votes to women officially became part of the US constitution. This day marks a turning point in the history of the struggle for equal treatment of women and women's rights. In 1920, the day stood for the result of 72 years of campaigning by a huge civil rights movement for women. Prior to movements like these, even respected thinkers such as Rousseau and

Kant believed that woman's inferior status in society was completely logical and reasonable; women were 'beautiful' and 'not fit for serious employment'. Over the last century, great women have proved these views wrong as the world has witnessed just what women are capable of achieving, from the likes of Rosa Parks and Eleanor Roosevelt fighting for civil rights and equality to great scientists such as Marie Curie, Rosalind Franklin and Jane Goodall. The last century has shown more than ever what both women and men are capable of achieving, given the opportunity.

What is the answer for Lake Shamineau?

By Karin Nauber Todd County reporter

What is the answer to the problem that Lake Shamineau is having with their high water levels?

Representatives from the Lake Shamineau Lake Improvement District (LSLID) met with the Todd County Board of Commissioners during their regular meeting on Tuesday, Aug. 7, to request a resolution of support for additional environmental information via land surveys, water surveys, environmental reviews, permits and petitions.

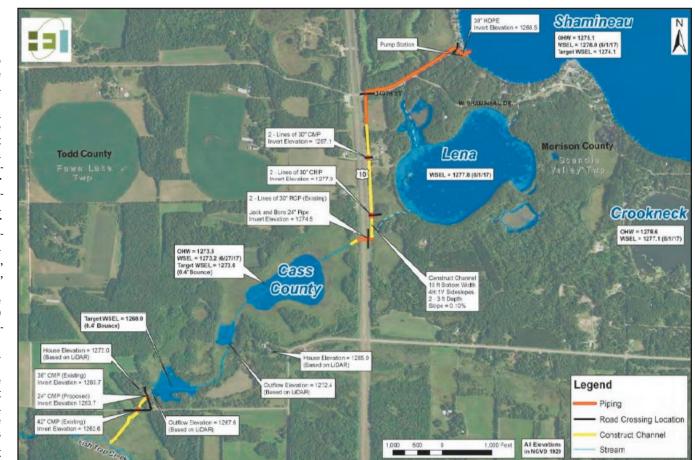

The presenters were Chairman of the LSLID Bob Koll and Vice Chairman Rick Rosar.

So what is the problem on Lake Shamineau?

It is a 1,600 acre lake that has no natural outlet and the water has been rising for many years. The lake has sustained serious damage by loss of natural shoreline, shoreline buffers, trees, vegetation and wildlife habitat as well as millions of dollars in property damage. Their website has the Feasibility Report and other information, https://minnesotawaters. org/lakeshamineau.

The water was 1.9 feet above the Ordinary High Water Level in July. It was 1.5 feet above the OHWL in June.

The Minnesota Department of Natural Resources defines the OHWL as the "elevation delineating the See LAKE on page 10a

Lake Shamineau, at the upper right hand corner of the map, is currently 1.9 feet above the Ordinary High Water Level and appears to continue to rise due to a number of conditions. The lake covers 1,600 acres and has no natural outlet. The Lake Shamineau Lake Improvement District wants to pump water out of the lake which is predominately in Morrison County, into County Ditch 41 and Fish Trap Creek in Todd County.

City of Staples shows planned improvements

The Staples City Council approved their Capital Improvement Plan for 2019-2023, showing planned investments in infrastructure and equipment.

The budget calls for Dower Lake improvements including a storm shelter, dependent on the

Other items in the budget included radio equipment for police and firefighters, and the fire department also has funds saved to purchase a new equipment truck.

Police Chief Melissa Birkholtz told the council they're still deciding if it's more econonomical to buy squad cars or lease them. The plan calls for purchasing vehicles to replace their leased cars.

Also on the Capital Improvement Plan for 2019 is the construction of a new wastewater treatment plant. The city has earmarked $9.2 million over three years for the new facility, estimating that 80 percent will come in grant money and 20 percent local match.

Jacobs brings energy to activities director job

News Editor

Mark Jacobs appreciates his opportunities very much. As the new Staples-Motley Activities Director, he has jumped right in and is getting to know the teams and is promoting unity among all the sports and activities. He hosted the football team at his home for a hot dog grill-out, and has plans to host other

The togetherness is part of a plan to bring teams together, and it is not a separate coalition for each team. He is also encouraging athletes to attend other events and activities other than their own. "I want athletes to have everyone else's backs," said Jacobs.

That includes the Fine Arts programs that fall under the activities department. "I love musicals and orchestra concerts. I want to get to know all the kids in the programs," he said.

Jacobs will continue with the Why We Play process already started in the Staples-Motley activities department. That process helps students focus on the bigger picture subjects of what sports has to offer beyond the game, said Jacobs.

"We want to give them what it takes to be successful when they are done with sports," he said. "Giving kids life skills like work ethic, integrity and character ... without those things it would be hard to achieve success. They need that relational component."

Jacobs believes those lofty goals are achievable at Staples-Motley because of the established history of the school's sports por-

"If we all show up and work together as a team, when everyone buys into that, we can get back to the traditions and build on them," he said. "I'm not going to change what's not broken.'

When the Staples-Motley activities director job was posted this spring, Jacobs relished the opportunity. "I love this community. I have been passing through my whole life," on his way to his cabin near Perham, said Jacobs.

Once he took the job, he realized "I'm a Cardinal again," as he grew up as a Coon Rapids Cardinal. He immediately bought Staples-Motley gear when he arrived here in July.

His first impression of the school was the young coaching staff leading most of the sports. After going through some workshops with coaches, Jacobs said "the ceiling is very high for our programs, these coaches are doing great things.

His first big move will be to hire a new girls' basketball coach, which he thought would be completed in September.

While Jacobs admitted it is a learning curve to come to a new school district, in his 17 years in education he has experienced a lot, from preschool, elementary, middle school and high school, plus coaching football and basketball. While working at a middle school in Robbinsdale, he was responsible for opening a sports program for a whole new district. "Within a month, I had hired 45 coaches and ordered all new uniforms,' he said, not to mention scheduling.

At Staples-Motley he will not be coaching, which he said he will miss, but he will teach strength training and fitness classes in the high school.

"You'll get high energy from this office," Jacobs said about his work style. 'I'm a grinder, every day."

Jacobs said his personal philosophy is "what can I do for others?"

His sports motto is "hard work beats talent when talent doesn't work

Those traits are already producing results for Jacobs in his new job. One day he bought a big box of donuts for the cross country team to eat after their practice at the football field. He was impressed when the whole team tracked grass through the office and sought Jacobs out.

'They said 'no one has ever done that for us before, so we wanted to thank you personally,' and they all shook my hand," said

Talented guests for Wayne Renn concert

Just replace the fish with a guitar and you will have an idea of what will be coming up at the Wayne Renn Concert on Sunday, Aug. 26, from 4-7 p.m. at Lincoln Park in Staples. Famous connections at Wayne Renn concert

By Mark Anderson News Editor

Fishing legend Babe Winkelman, the guitarist who wrote "Smokin' in the Boys Room," and a drummer who was once Kenny Loggins' roommate will join Wayne Renn on stage for a free outdoor concert on Sunday, Aug. 26, at Lincoln Park in Staples, from 4-7 p.m.

Renn has been giving free concerts for the past several years on the Sunday of Railroad Days, near his studio at the old Lincoln Model School in Staples. Each year features new guests selected from the friends Renn has made while traveling around the country playing music. This year, Renn said he didn't get confirmations from his guest musicians until the last week, but it is now a go.

Babe Winkelman and his brother Dave have had a touring band since they were in high school, said Renn. Although they made it to television for hunting and fishing, they have continued to play music and Dave will be singing some of his original "green" songs from a new CD.

Guitarist Steve Tamasy is another friend of Renn's. "He has an incredible story," Renn said about writing "Smokin' in the Boys Room," a rock and roll hit from 1973 by Brownsville Station, and remade in 1985 by Motley Crue. Renn said Tamasy was 18 and had just been drafted to go to the Vietnam War when he sold his rights to the song. "He just wanted to see it produced. When he got back, he decided he just wanted to be a normal person, but he still is a great guitarist," said Renn.

Drummer Dan King was roommates with singer Kenny Loggins in the 1970s when they were both working with the same management company. He will also be jamming with Renn for parts of the concert.

Renn's regular drummer, Nathan Theibert, will be there as will Wayne's daughter, Lyla Renn, on bass with her own original songs and special favorites. Lyla's young daughter Brylee might be coaxed to join them on stage again.

The Wayne Renn Concert has been a mixture of country, rock, blues and Americana working class music in the past, and this eclectic lineup will give another concert like no one has seen before.

Holst Acres adds family entertainment for all ages

Entertainment entrepreneurs

Road). The new structure holds the laser tag arena, and the corn maze is behind the fence on the left. (Staples World photo by Mark Anderson)

By Mark Anderson News Editor

Not just for fright fans anymore, the Haunted Hollow Halloween location is now a family friendly entertainment center with laser tag, corn maze with games and a "not so scary" Halloween trail. It also has a new name, Holst Acres.

Derek Holst said he has been thinking about the idea for a few years, but it solidified during a trip to the west coast where he visited a similar place. "It was family entertainment for all ages, there were two year olds walking around and old guys pushing strollers," Holst remembered. That place had paintball games for entertainment, but the more he researched it, he found laser tag would be a better fit.

"It's more interactive than paintball and there is no real age limits. We have smaller vests with small laser guns that four year olds can use," said Holst. So he got to work building a laser tag arena with two levels and multiple ramps going up and down, several rooms that can be accessed from different directions and hallways to get around the arena.

"People like nice things, so I took the extra time to make a nice course," said

A couple of test runs have been conducted to see how the equipment works and Holst already has taken some reservations for birthday parties and one for a big family gathering before Christmas.

The complex will have a grand opening during Railroad Days. There will be food from Too Tall Tavern and visitors will be able to try out laser tag and the corn maze. Railroad Days hours are Friday, Aug. 24, 4-9 p.m., Sat. Aug. 25, 12-4 and 6-9 p.m., Sun., Aug. 26, 12-4 p.m. Holst said he will take some reservations for laser tag groups.

After Railroad Days, the laser tag venue will be open year round on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays from 6-10 p.m. or by reservation. The corn maze and Halloween trail will be the last weekend in September, plus Fridays in October 4-7 p.m. and Saturdays and Sundays in October, 11 a.m.-7 p.m. The full Haunted Hollow experience will be Saturdays in October, plus special scare nights.

Specialty games

In laser tag, each contestant is equipped with a vest and an attached laser gun. The guns do not actually shoot lasers, it is more like a TV remote control that activates the opponent's vest when shot in the right direction. The guns and vests are wirelessly hooked up to a computer that can count the number of hits from each gun.

The laser tag software has many different games to play. The most common is one team with red lights on their vests playing against another team with blue lights. The guns count the number of hits on opponents. When an opponent's laser vest gets hit, they can't shoot for three seconds. The program can be changed so everyone is an individual. Some of the wilder games include 'Zombie", in which a small team must get multiple hits on the zombie team before their lives run out, or 'Civil War," in which single shot guns can only fire every 10 seconds. There are other strategy games that involve different teams or require shooting a hidden bonus target.

The vests at Holst Acres are harder to hit than at some laser tag venues. "It's more concentrated, it takes good aim to get a hit," said Holst. "That makes it more fun for people to come back and see if they can get better at it."

The corn maze is another idea Holst got from his west coast trip. He got a professional corn maze designer to plot it out with a pumpkin theme. In various corners and dead ends there are family games and puzzles. Each group gets a game sheet to make sure they find all the game stations in the maze. It is the only corn maze in Minnesota designed by the company Maze Quest.

"It's good for young and old," said Holst. He said the Haunted Hollow specialized in teens and adults who wanted to be scared, but Holst Acres is now for all ages and all kinds of

Multi-level laser tag

Medicare for All has Congressional supporters

by Richard Master

Representatives Jayapal (D-WA), Ellison (D-MN) and Dingell (D-MI) recently announced they will be co-chairing the new Congressional Medicare for All Caucus. This caucus will have significant impact. They've already brought on 70 members of Congress as founding members, and if the national conversation around the issue is any indication, they'll keep adding more as time goes on.

A few years back, I started asking questions about why my company's health insurance plans got more and more expensive-increasing by double digit percentages year after year. That question led me down a rabbit hole.

I learned more about how our overly commercialized health care system is designed and how its supply chain complexity masks huge profit centers, like insurance companies and pharmacy benefit managers that add little value while wasting our time and precious dollars, how we have the most expensive system in the world with worse health outcomes, how we are the only country that depends on employers to provide health insurance to a large portion of our population and the only one that relies on for-profit insurers to finance our healthcare system, how we pay twice as much for prescription drugs and how the average doctor will spend tens of thousands of dollars every year dealing with insurance companies.

Then I began to study the way other developed countries were designing their health care systems.

I've been in business for decades and as a CEO it's my job to understand how to create efficient systems that deliver a high-quality product at low costs. It wasn't long before one thing became painfully obvious to me, the only way we can have universal health care at low cost is Medicare for All. Ever since, I've been advocating for it non-stop. I created documentaries about how health insurance and pharmaceutical companies, along with their huge lobbying budgets, are decimating our healthcare system and economy.

I founded the Business Initiative for Health Policy to tell the story of how our small and mid-sized businesses are crying out for relief from our employerbased system. There's no question that our healthcare system is broken, but for a long time it's often felt like I've been screaming into the void. However, recently things have changed. Public opinion is shifting as healthcare costs continue to rise. More and more candidates are winning elections running on Medicare for All, and now, over 65 members have signed on to the Medicare for All caucus. To an advocate like myself, this is a huge step. Just a few years back, having a caucus of this size behind this issue would have been unthinkable. These high-profile elected officials, including Representative Dingell, who is not one of the "usual suspects' around Medicare for All, will be able to bring others into the fold and educate themselves and other elected officials.

The members of this caucus are showing that their dedication to universal health care is more than skin deep. They are showing that they are willing to learn about patients, doctors and business owners, like myself, who struggle to keep up with rising costs. They're showing they are willing to fight for patients who are being forced to face both illness and bankruptcy at the same time. Most importantly, they're showing that, more and more, Medicare for All is becoming a platform issue and that it is a politically viable answer to the health care debate.

This is a huge step for supporters of Medicare for All and shows that the discussion around health care has been permanently changed.

Richard Master is the CEO of MCS Industries, the Founder of the Business Initiative for Health Policy, and the producer of several documentaries about the health care industry.

The Power of Water

by Dr. Gary S. Smith

They danced. They sang. They shouted and cried for joy. Had their team won the Super Bowl or the Stanley Cup? Had they won a giant Powerball lottery? No, but their lives had been transformed. A well had been dug in their village and now they would have a clean, reliable source of water and not need to spend hours each week hauling water from miles

Muslims and Christians embraced. Speeches were given. Gratitude was expressed. People took turns pumping cool, refreshing. clean water and savoring it as it flowed over their arms and feet. The scene was a small village in Malawi, a country ranked among the poorest nations in the

I had written about the impact of providing wells to impoverished communities in my book "Suffer the Children." Now as part of a mission trip, I was witnessing the celebration and ecstasy having a well brought first-hand. I struggled in vain to think of a first-world parallel to this event. There was none. The closest one I could imagine was a company bringing hundreds of jobs to a hardscrabble small town.

The 92-year-old mother of one of our mission team members had donated $5,000 to pay for drilling the well. It was money incredibly well spent. When 16 development experts were recently asked which poverty interventions are most successful, they ranked providing clean water to rural villages as number one, ahead of sponsoring or deworming children or providing microloans, mosquito nets, wood burning stoves, farm animals or laptops.

Millions of people in developing nations live in villages or rural areas where the only source of water is a polluted river, stream or swamp. Imagine carrying 80 pounds of water in a can on your head or back for five miles once or twice a day, digging in the sand at a well for several hours for your turn to draw water. While an average American household uses about 100 gallons of water each day, families in the developing world use a mere five gallons a day. Consequently, after hauling water home, the poor have to choose whether to use it for drinking, cooking, bathing, or washing dishes and clothes because they do not have enough water for all these purposes. Worldwide, the indigent spend billions of hours procuring water, time that children could instead use to attend school or play and adults could use to generate much needed income.

Improving water and sanitation especially benefits women. Countless women and girls devote as many as 20 hours per week to collecting water, which also limits their school attendance and often destroys their dreams of becoming physicians, teachers, lawyers or nurses. Demographers predict that one billion women could enter the global workforce in the next 10 years, but the time they will expend searching for safe water will impede their ability to do so. When communities have a clean, easily-accessible water supply, women spend less time caring for sick family members and can earn more money. Because women and girls are often assaulted or raped on their trips to procure water, their lives also become safer.

In the developing world, either the lack of water or contaminated water causes numerous health problems, including the death of almost two million children every year. Impure drinking water, coupled with improper hand washing and inadequate sanitation, causes diarrhea, which alone leads to almost one million deaths per year. Filthy latrines, open sewage and the lack of bathing opportunities make matters worse. Strikingly, more people today own a mobile phone than have a toilet in their home.

dies as a result of a waterrelated disease such as roundworm, whipworm or hookworm. These diseases also stunt growth, produce debilitating anemia, diminish children's cognitive potential and lead millions of them to miss many days of school. Among other benefits, access to clean water cuts infant mortality in rural villages in half at a cost of only $10 per child per year.

More than 80 organizations, Christian and secular, are working to provide clean water and improve sanitation around the world. They drill wells, distribute hygiene kits and construct latrines and hand-washing stations. These organizations also make water filters from basic local materials and teach residents of poor communities to wash their hands, cook with clean utensils and draw water from uncontaminated

Few of us will ever have the opportunity to rescue an individual from a burning building or from drowning, but we can save, or at least significantly enhance, the lives of poor children and adults by paying for wells that supply clean, safe, reliable water for drinking, cooking, bathing and cleaning. Working through numerous organizations including charities like Living Water International, individuals, families, Sunday school classes, congregations and community organizations can fund the digging of wells to transform the lives of the poor. Charity: Water, for example, helps children in the developed world use their birthday parties as a means to raise money to dig wells rather than receive presents. Working together we can make a difference and help fulfill the biblical mandate to care for the least of these.

Letters to the Editor

School board news not misleading

Because of my position on the school board and an ongoing legal issue, I cannot comment fully on last week's letter by a former board member. ("Misleading school board news" letter to the editor, Staples World, Aug. 16, 2018, editorial page)

I can tell you that on several occasions I have fully discussed his resignation, and the circumstances surrounding it with him, and I recommended that he discuss his issues with Dr. Bratlie, which he did.

Also, my reference to

"the elephant in the room" was not a reference to an individual, but to a situation.

Greg Frisk Motley, Minn.

Better than ever

I have tried to spend some time at Legacy Gardens near the Central Lakes College campus, north of Staples, each time I'm home during the summer. It has been a treat to watch the gardens grow, in more ways than one, through the years.

This year, however, I was excited to see the many changes that have been made to the area in recent months, including updates to some of the signs, a new walking bridge and so many new flowers, plants and veggies.

Everything is clean, green and inviting. The entire site is a real gem for the area. What a fantastic place to take a book and a cup of tea or coffee. It is such a calm and tranquil spot, perfect for reflecting, relaxing or chatting with a friend.

I hope those who have not already visited Legacy Gardens this summer will take an opportunity to do so, especially while so many of the flowers are still in bloom. My hat's off to the good folks running the show out there these days. Well done.

Power to the parent: be hip to HIPS

Todd County CAD will be offering a mobile HIPS display at various events this Summer and Fall. "HIPS" is short for "Hidden in Plain Sight".

A Hidden in Plain Sight display provides parents and other caregivers with clues from a teen's bedroom to help them determine whether their child might be experimenting with or using drugs or alcohol. Room décor, hidden compartments and items to conceal use are located throughout the room.

Todd County CAD will have the only known mobile HIPS display in the state, using its CAD trailer to transport and display the teen bedroom around the county. The mobile display will be available at Railroad Days in Staples and Communities Connect in Staples on Oct. 18.

Todd County CAD will also collaborate with protessionais in intervention, treatment and recovery, who will be available during the display times. Touring the display is free of charge and open to adults only. Children's activities will be provided.

If your group is interested in having the CAD trailer at a Todd County event, or if you have any questions on the mobile HIPS display, contact Connie Burns, Todd County Health Education Coordinator at 320-732.2221 or connie.burns@co.todd.mn.us.

SOUND INTENSITY

common cause of hearing loss. Intensity of sound is measured in "decibels" (dBs) on a scale that ranges from the faintest sound that the human ear can detect (o dB) to the noise created by a rocket launch (180 dB). Because the decibel scale is a logarithmic scale, which goes up in powers of ten, every increase of 10dB on the scale is equivalent to a 10-fold increase in sound intensity, which generally translates into a doubling in loudness. That means that a sound of 20dB is 10 times more intense than a sound of 10dB. So, an increase from 85 dB (heavy traffic) to 95 dB (motorcycle) may be more intense than you realize.

The noise levels in many instances in our lives is enough to cause hearing to deteriorate, often without our being aware of it happening. Do you spend lots of time in a noisy environment? Have you been experiencing hearing difficulties? There really isn't any reason to wait any longer hoping the problem will go away, because it won't. Take charge of your hearing-call us at 1-800-458-0095 to arrange a free hearing test at 17474 STATE HWY 371, BRAINERD. PREFERRED HEARING provides this information as a public service. If we become aware of any unusual condition during a hearing consultation that warrants additional professional attention, we can provide an expert referral.

P.S. Limit your exposure to sounds at or above 100 decibels to no more than 15 minutes, and limit sounds that are at or above 110 decibels to no more than 1 minute

Kopka family to share their story at Veterans Appreciation event Sept. 22

Heinrich (Henry) Kopka of Staples was just six years old when his family abandoned their home in East Prussia because the Russian armies were close by and would arrive shortly.

It was the winter of 1945; and Henry's parents, Gustav, Sr. and Marie Kopka, along with their five children, ages one - 14, knew their only hope was to leave and search for safety and a better life.

A detailed account of the Kopka family's flight from East Prussia includes stories of their narrowly escaping artillery fire and crossing a bridge just prior to its being blown up, as well as their having to travel by foot at night, finding shelter in abandoned buildings on occasion.

The Kopkas spent time at a refugee camp in Danzig for awhile, later traveling by freight train toward their destination of Hanover, which was bombed prior to their arrival. They stayed in the woods for awhile and when it was finally deemed safe, continued their journey.

According to the account, the Kopkas ultimately arrived in Kirkdorf in late 1945. They stayed there until the end of 1951 when they went to the refugee camp in Hamburg-Bergedorf for preparation to immigrate to the United States. On Jan. 17, 1952, they boarded the ship The General Stewart with 1,350 other people representing several nationalities, sailing from Bremerhaven to New York, arriving on Jan.

Eventually, the Kopka family makes their way to Minnesota, by way of train. They were "adopted" by a Lutheran Church congregation in Pequot Lakes, under the leadership of Pastor Severtson.

The written account states that "In summary, the Kopka family were displaced people since they abandoned their East Prussia farm on January 1945 until they arrived in their adopted home of Pequot Lakes thanks to the efforts of allies and resettlement organizations after World War II. Without these people, their lives would have been drastically different."

The Kopkas story will be told at a 'Welcome Home Veterans' event at Faith Lutheran Church in Staples Sept. 22, during the worship service portion of the event at 5:30 p.m. It will be told by Gustav, Sr. and Marie Kopka's grandchildren Becky, John and Nathan.

The telling of the story will follow the 'Walk of Honor,' during which veterans will be escorted into the sanctuary by a family member and seated in the front rows. The Kopka story will confirm for the veterans that there were good things that happened because of their service.

Veterans from all service branches from WWII to recent campaigns are invited to the 'Welcome Home Veterans' event on Sept. 22, during which they will be given medals as a token of appreciation for their service to the country. Following the service, a potluck meal will be served and a 'mail call' program will take place.

Veteran applications

Veteran applications for the 'Welcome Home' event are available at both Faith Lutheran Church in Staples, and at the Staples World. They need to be returned to the church by Sept. 7. For more information, call 218-894-1546 or email faithlutheranstaples@gmail.com.

The Declaration

Pastor Carl Larson, Faith Lutheran Church, Staples

"Because of this many of his disciples turned back and no longer went about with him. So Jesus asked the twelve, "Do you also wish to go away?" Simon Peter answered him, "Lord, to whom can we go? You have the words of eternal life. We have come to believe and know that you are the Holy One of God." John 6:66-69 When I was teaching American History at Northern State University, I would make it a point to share with my students an article in a history magazines about what happened to the 56 men that signed the Declaration of Independence. In the article, the author stated that the conviction to the idea of liberty by the 56 resulted in untold sufferings for themselves and their families. Author Kenneth Dodge wrote, of the 56 men that signed the Declaration of Independence

· five were captured and tortured by the British 12 had their homes pillaged and burned

· two lost their sons to the Revolutionary Army and another two had their sons captured by the British Army · and nine of the 56 fought and died from wounds or hardships incurred in the Revolutionary War. According to Kenneth Dodge, one of the signers, Carter Braxton of Virginia, a wealthy trader, had all of his ships sunk which eventually forced him to sell his home and all his properties, leaving him impoverished. Signee Thomas Nelson, a plantation owner from Virginia, had his home taken by British General Cornwallis prior to the Battle of Yorktown. As the Battle of Yorktown came to a close and the British could see their impending defeat, General Cornwallis ordered that Nelson's home be burnt to the ground, which left Nelson and his family with nothing.

New Jersey signee, John Hart had to flee for his life from his home leaving his wife and his 13 children to fend for themselves. For over a month Hart moved from place to place, hiding out in barns, under bridges, in caves, trying to elude the British soldiers that were hunting him. Eventually, Hart made it back to his home, only to find that his wife had died and his children were taken by the British soldiers. Hart died within a month, while searching for his children.

This is only a partial account of the story about the 56 men who signed the Declaration of Independence, but it's a story that highlights the high price of commitment. In a way so it is for all those who follow Jesus for there is a 'Cost to Discipleship.' But just as the 56 signees commitment to liberty led to a magnificent legacy of change in the world, so too our commitment to Christ Jesus leads to a change, a transformative change in you and me that is witnessed by others through our investment of love that comes from Christ.

In Peter's confession from the 6th chapter of John we are reminded of that transformational commitment that calls us to follow Christ even though there is a cost of following. "Lord, to whom can we go? You have the words of eternal life.

Lakewood Health System (LHS) has grown significantly since he came. In 1980 there were just four doctors and today there are over 50 providers. In 1980 Lakewood consisted of the Hospital, Care Center and management of the Mary Rondorf Home. Since his arrival, the additions to LHS include: Home Care/Hospice Agency in 1983, acquired Browerville Clinic in 1985, acquired Eagle Bend clinic in 1987, constructed an attached clinic in 1992, merged with Lakewood Clinic PA to form a private not-forprofit Lakewood Health System, opened the Motley Clinic in 1998, acquired Lakewood Pines in 2000, opened Pillager Clinic in 2003, acquired ownership of the Mary Rondorf Home and renamed Lakewood Manor in 2004, constructed new hospital and clinic in Staples in 2006, expanded the Pillager Clinic in 2009, established the Dermatology Clinic in Sartell in 2010 and purchased a permanent bullaing in 2018. In 2018 the Pillager and Staples Clinic expansions were completed. The Lakewood Health System now has more than 850 employ-

The Duane R. Lund Award is more than about work related achievements. Tim's involvement and leadership are literally too numerous to list for the limitations of this article. Some of them are: treasurer, Faith Lutheran Church; Staples Lions member 29 years; Chamber of Commerce past president three times; Staples Area Men's Chorus 38 years; Staples Youth Basketball Program Director; Chair of LEAP (Leadership, Engagement, Advocacy. Positiveness) since inception; and member of the Staples Economic Development Authority.

When asked why he gets so involved he said, "Staples is my home and we all have an obligation to get involved and focus on our strengths to make our community better. Every day at work I think about the thousands of patients and residents who are coming through the doors and all of the providers and employees and their families and I realize they are depending on me to do the best job I can and I do not want to let them down. To me this award is not my life achievement but what all of us at LHS have accomplished together."

Outstanding Citizen STEVE BENSON

Lee and Judy Jenkins nominated Steve for the Outstanding Citizen Award saying he is a "real asset" to the community. Among other things, he has been faithful in helping Sacred Heart Area School with technology and he volunteers time to work with young people.

Steve and his wife Julie moved to Staples from St. Paul in 1997. Before that time he was an engineer for Northwest Airlines. When their daughter Katie started kindergarten at Sacred Heart, he began helping with the school's computers and he has continued as volunteer technology coordinator ever since - even though his children have long since graduated. Since they have a good connection with Lakewood Health System (where his wife is a physician), he is able to upgrade the school's technology and repurpose Lakewood's computers every few years. Steve reports that the school has also benefited from Central Lakes College's computer hardware,

Other individuals and organizations have benefitted from Steve's willingness to share his technology expertise. For example, he helped set up the Staples Motley Area Community Foundation's original web site.

When his children, Katie and Jack, became active in the 4-H shooting sports program, Steve became an adult volunteer coaching rifle, pistol and shotgun shooting. He also petitioned the school to join the Minnesota High School Clay Target League in 2012. Together with Bob Koenig, he voluntarily coaches the Staples-Motley High School Trap and Skeet teams.

Steve is also a member of the Staples Sportsman's Club, which donates the clay targets and range time for the local high school trap teams. He was also instrumental in fundraising to modernize the trap range. Students who are receiving their firearms safety training will see him at the range during their training there.

Community members who aren't around youth programs will still likely see how Steve makes the area a better place to live. For example, he is a member of the Staples Host Lions Club, Sacred Heart Church and School volunteer and on the board for the Vintage Golf Course.

Chairman's Award LAVONNE SELLECK

Our group found it was easy to pick a volunteer after working with LaVonne Selleck on many different projects.

She is quiet in her work and her weeding often is done during her daily walks through the downtown area. She volunteers at Living Legacy Gardens where she does two hours of weeding on Tuesday mornings from May to October.

On Tuesday afternoon she can be found volunteering at the public library. Wednesday she may be found at her church joining the quilting group. If there is a church dinner she often is at the beverage station making sure there is coffee or lemonade ready for the diners. If there is a program at Centennial Auditorium, LaVonne is the one responsible for ticket takers and ushers.

She helps set up treats for intermissions. She puts in time at the Food Shelf. LaVonne is also available to go and sit with someone who needs to be at a clinic appointment.

LaVonne is one of those people who just can't sit still. Things to do and learn. She is an adoptive parent and lifelong teacher to those she is around. LaVonne provides endless care for our community's public spaces. Look out, weeds of the week!

She is a farm girl applying practical uses and ways of doing things every day. She is grateful for the days provided so she can share her abilities. LaVonne treasures her family and her heritage just as we treasure the gifts she shares with us.

LaVonne was nominated by Living Legacy Garden volunteers and Staples Public Library staff.

Outstanding Organization STAPLES AREA WOMEN'S CHORUS

The Staples Area Women's Chorus was organized in 1977 by Linda Thompson

Directors over the years include Thompson, Ruth Blum, Dale Knudson, Charlene McKinnis, Mike Blessing, Steve Hoemberg, Rob Freelove and Joan Batcher Rhymers, the current Accompanists include Virginia Hegre, Jerdis Cerney, Donna Miller, Sandy Paskewitz, Andrew Stoneking, Becky Nelson and Kim Berggren, the current accompanist.

Each director has brought new challenges and skills to the organization. Under Mike Blessing, our longest term director of over 23 years, the women performed a variety show each year with the Staples Area Men's Chorus (SAMC).

In 2011, in order to be able to apply for grants, the group became a 501c3 non-profit. That opened the door for bigger and more averagive concerts.

expensive concerts. Their mission statement is "The Staples Area Women's Chorus is dedicated to the study and performance of music, the attainment of excellence in the art of women's choral music, the promotion of sociability and good fellowship among its members, cooperation with other music organizations, public appearances, providing music to the community as well as entertainment and education through music.

Some accomplishments include:

• Toured in England with the SAMC and the Staples-Motley High School (SMHS) band, choir and orchestra. They sang in some wonderful cathedrals, one in York.

For several years the organization was asked by area high school directors to develop a festival for their young women, similar to the "Real Men Sing" festival held by the SAMC. The late Barb Cline had a passion for sharing her love of song with young women and developed a plan for the festival.

Director Rob Freelove caught her vision and in January 2014 the first "Her Voice Her Song" was launched. This festival allows student musicians to experience a large group concert. Up to 15 area high schools have participated as well college choirs.

The festival has expanded each year. In March of 2018 the mass choir was over 500 voices, so large that the choir was in the stadium seating with the audience seated on the main floor.

Last year, the men's chorus of Grand Rapids invited SAWC to be their guests for a Spring Festival.

As part of their mission, SAWC donates music to the local high school music library, sings in area churches and, sadly, sings at member's funerals.

Outstanding Business STAPLES ACE HARDWARE

Hal Swanson and Mike Wiebolt bought a local Staples hardware store from Dave and Caroline Lester in February 2013. The store that sits along Highway 10 now bears the name "Staples Ace Hardware." Hal is on-site every day, while Mike travels from store to store always keeping his eyes open for new opportunities.

Prior to the hardware store business, Hal worked for 25 years in the beer distributing industry. He started as a truck driver and eventually was running the company.

Hal credits some of his best lessons learned from his boss there, Charlie Sheets. Charlie was an early riser and worked hard. It was there where he witnessed the wisdom in never asking your employees to do something you wouldn't do yourself.

Hal also learned about working hard from his father, who is a farmer. Of course, Hal says working with Mike is the same - Mike never stops working on new projects and has a lot of energy.

Hal is quick to mention that it is the whole team at Ace Hardware that makes it special, everyone works together to make it all happen. Hal has noticed while he is at meetings with other store owners that he never has to be on the phone settling problems like they do. He loves that he has such a great crew he can leave in charge without worries.

Depending on the season, the store has between 10-12 employees. No matter who he hires, full-time or part-time, Hal tells the new employee that they are going to learn everything - no matter how long they'll be there. Skills you learn in running a hardware store are great skills to take anywhere else.

Over the years, the store has tried dabbling in the rental business, appliances and other areas, but the main attraction is a great selection of hardware and great service. Anyone who enters the store doesn't have to look for long because an employee will be there almost before you take ten steps into the store, ready to help you find just what you need. If they don't have it, they can order it for you. Hal says the Ace motto is "It takes two to say 'No'.'

Staples Ace Hardware is always ready and willing to help out in the community. For several years the store has hosted the children's tractor pull during Railroad Days. Their parking lot has also been the destination for fundraiser car washes. Hal has plans to roll-out another community program this fall, so stay tuned.

Outstanding Youth SARA OBERLANDER

Sara Oberlander's selfless devotion to others defines her character and makes her deserving of the Outstanding Youth award.

From a young age, Sara has been active in several activities. Some of these include Girl Scouts, dance and drama. As Sara got into middle school, she became the president of student council and the MVP and president of choir. She established herself as a leader and someone who is always willing to give a helping hand.

As she entered high school, Sara had many achievements, acting as both vice president and president of the Student Council, being inducted into National Honor Society and being active in drama.

She participated in Prairie Fire Children's Theater, Mad Hatters Community Theatre and Lamp Camp. She volunteered to help with Special Olympics and as a youth service leader and Vacation Bible school leader at Faith Lutheran Church.

She participated in the Rotary Youth Leadership Awards program, as well as representing Staples-Motley High School (SMHS) as one of four SMHS students selected to take part in Academic World Quest in St. Paul. She was also active in knowledge bowl and Spanish Class, taking a trip with the club to Costa Rica. In 2018 she went to Iceland with the Science classes at SMHS.

All of these things are very impressive and outstanding, but they are not the things that make Sara stand out from other people. When asked what her life goal is, she stated "My whole life, I have wanted to be a nice, kind person." Sara has done this by her treatment of people and what she has done to help others.

One of the outstanding things she started in high school is called the "Random Acts of Kindness Committee." Sara stated that the goal of this committee is to help those who are left out, bullied or are feeling alone. The committee would make baskets and give them to people who needed a friend. She called some of these "sunshine baskets" and would fill them with yellow candy, a happy color, and randomly give them to others. For some students, this may have been the only positive experience they had all day with another student. Sara genuinely cares about people and wants no one to be left out.

Sara is a 2018 graduate of SMHS and is the daughter of Richard and Wanda Oberlander of Staples. She will be attending the Minnesota State University in Moorhead this fall, majoring in political science with a minor in pre-law. Sara aspires to one day be a human rights lawyer. She is definitely a champion for people.

School building plans continue in spite of delay

By Brenda Halvorson General Manager

Although the school district cannot pursue a professional architect at this time, the board identified other tasks that can move the school building project forward at their Aug. 20 meeting.

Buildings and Grounds Director LeRov Peterson reported that soil borings at the elementary school site were scheduled for next week.

The board also directed Superintendent Ron Bratlie to research firms and/ or individuals who can help the district coordinate a communication plan to help inform district residents on the status of the project.

However, the stumbling block to progress is a difference of opinion regarding a consulting services contract.

The school board hired FJJ (Foster, Jacobs & Johnson, Inc.) in February, 2017,

The district and FJJ are disagreeing about payment for services that the board believes were beyond the scope of the original contract and were not authorized. One of FJJ's responses was to ask WSN (Widseth, Smith, Nolting), the architect hired by the school district, to stop

"WSN is not going to do any work with us until this is settled," Bratlie said.

Another factor is that after the initial contract was signed, FJJ merged with ICS Consulting, Inc. Board members noted they had no contract with ICS.

"You didn't agree to reassignment (of the contract)," Bratlie said.

The building steering committee met in the morning of Aug. 20 with Michael DeVetter of DeVetter Design Group, an archi-DeVetter also advised that the design professionals need to be involved in the discussions with the board and community to help define the goals and respond to questions.

Bratlie reported at the evening meeting that a mediation session with FJJ was scheduled for Oct. 4 but some board members questioned why they needed mediation.

Bratlie said the school district's lawyer believes that mediation will be necessary at some point, "so let's get it over with.'

"If we do nothing, will they sue us?" asked Brad Anderson. "We can't move forward with anyone until this is settled.'

Bruce Lund said he would like to get the lawyer's perception on tecture and planning firm whether settling on an would be more economical than lawyer fees to contest the charges.

"What will it cost us to fight this?" Lund asked.

Chad Longbella said he'd like to meet with the lawver so, "all six of us can hear the same thing."

Frisk agreed saying "I want to be shown if I did something wrong."

Bratlie will schedule a meeting with the district's attorney.

highest water level that has been maintained for a sufficient period of time to leave evidence upon the landscape, commonly the point where the natural vegetation changes from predominately aquatic to predominately terrestrial".

Why this affects Todd County so much is because the LSLID would like to pump water out of the lake and pipe it out to County Ditch 41 and Fish Trap Creek in Todd County.

The LSLID hired Houston Engineering to prepare a feasibility report which studied several options for solving the devastating high water problem on Lake Shamineau.

The results of the feasibility report determined the most feasible solution was to install a lake outlet pump that can be controlled by developing an operating plan with Todd County and/or its property owners on Fish Trap Creek and County Ditch 41, as not to contribute to any significant downstream impacts.

Letters of support for the project have been received from Scandia Valley Township in Morrison County as well as Fawn Lake Township in Todd County.

These two townships encompass nearly all the land area beginning at Lake Shamineau to where the water would enter Fish Trap Creek and to where Fish Trap Creek flows into the Long Prairie River, including over two miles

The LSLID represents that they may even be able to reduce the amount of money Todd County spends on maintenance of

The property owners they have met with would like additional information on the project, which is not available without additional land surveys and environmental reviews, and would also be needed for the permitting and/or the petitioning process.

Among the first tasks would be to conduct land surveys, water surveys and environmental reviews in Todd County in the areas of Fish Trap Creek and CD

Koll said that LSLID was looking for a win-win situation.

"When I moved to Lake Shamineau in 1970, the lake was six feet lower than it is now," said Koll.

He pointed out that this is all just at a conceptual plan right now.

"We had a public hearing of the landowners on the lake and the overwhelming majority were in favor of paying for this project," added Koll.

"We don't want to drain the lake, we love the water in the lake. We just want to lower it and stabilize it." he said.

Part of the reason they were seeking the resolution of support from Todd County was because Morrison County won't move forward unless Todd County does Rosar said, "We need your help, but we want to help the landowners where we can."

Todd County Engineer Loren Fellbaum asked them to briefly describe their plan with the two barriers on the ditch, namely Highway 10 and the Burlington Northern Santa Fe Railroad crossing.

Rosar said they would have to talk with each of them yet.

According to Koll, the engineers have talked with the highway department regarding Highway 10.

'One of the first things we want to do is the environmental reviews and surveys here in Todd County. Without that we don't want to spend money if it won't happen. We are not asking for permission to pump yet. This is basically to get more information and then bring that back to the board," Koll said.

Rosar added that they did not believe they would be required to do a full Environmental Impact Study.

"We're at the conceptual stage, but we have to deal with all these agencies," said Koll.

Chairman Randy Neumann said, "You are addressing us as the county board, not as the ditch authority. Without a petition on Ditch 41, our attorney said 'no' to this."

Rosar said that they needed to secure the money first and then get their permits in place.

'We can't do the reviews and surveys without funds," said Rosar,

You need to have more information before you come to this board again," said Neumann.

Rosar said, "We need to answer our questions. We are just asking our members and Morrison County to give us money so we can find out these answers or we can't fill out a petition."

'Without approval to go forward from the commissioners, we can't go forward," added Koll.

"If you give us permission to move forward to get more information, then Morrison County would maybe say 'Yes, they can see the need," said Koll.

Commissioner Barb Becker said, "We need to hear from Morrison County.'

Rosar said, "Morrison County is waiting to hear from you. The resolution just allows us to get more information."

Commissioner David Kircher asked, "Why do we have to sign a resolution (for you to get more information)? I question that."

Rosar replied, "This just says we can get more information. There is no cost to Todd County. Morrison County ultimately needs to hear if you are going to do it or not.'

We will not make a decision without more information," said Kircher.

Neumann asked if CD 41 had the hydraulic capacity to handle the amount of water that would flow through it?

"We believe we can design a plan to do it, but we have to complete additional studies to find out," said Rosar.

Commissioner Rod Erickson said that he concurred with Kircher that there was no need for a resolution. 'We've made it clear we want more information. It is up to you to get it," said Erickson.

"Agreed, but can you communicate with Morrison County to let them know you want more information?" asked Koll.

Kircher said that Interim Coordinator Chris Pelzer would make a call to Morrison County to let them know that Todd County wants more infor-

Teaching players about resiliency

Kappler takes over to keep football program running smoothly

By Mark Anderson News Editor

As a former offensive lineman, new Staples-Motley football coach Chris Kappler knows what it takes to win in the trench-

"We are stressing the fundamentals, executing steps, hand position, getting off the ball," said Kappler. "The little things lead to big success.'

Kappler is in his eighth year as football coach for Staples-Motley. His first year was junior varsity and he moved up to become defensive coach for the past four years, before starting as head coach this year.

Kappler grew up in Ann Arbor, Mich., attending Huron High School. He played football at Gustavus Adolphus College as an offensive lineman and staved on with JV. C squad and spea fifth year as a graduate assistant coach. He spent one year teaching and coaching at Pillager before settling in at Staples-Motley, where he is also a middle school physical education teacher.

The players are pleased to have someone familiar as the head coach.

"It helps that he was already with us," said Evan

"He knows all the players personally," said Cade Schmidt.

"He really knows his stuff," said Jordon Carlson. "We're excited, he is doing great things," said Scout Strickland.

Kappler will continue to be the defensive coach and Nick Schultz will continue as the offensive coach. Assistants Kermit Klefsaas and Mark Sheie will help cialty positions.

The team is also working on character development. At a recent practice, the team gathered at midfield and talked about resiliency. Kappler asked several players "Who did you see that showed resiliency today?"

The players responded with who they saw and why they liked what their teammate was doing.

Kappler said that is a part of the Why We Play program started by Travis VanOverbeke. Every week they have a different topic, inlcuding grit, integrity, selflessnes, respect and resiliency. They talk about it before practice and then ask how it played out after practice.

Coach Nick Doll was happy to see Lauren Rutten, Abbie DiGiovanni, and Tiffany Achermann all earn thier their first varsity wins.

"We have a lot of younger players playing varsity, we're a work in progress, said Haley Cichos, one of the team veterans. Jenna Dvorak added "we'll be really strong in the future.'

The team had very different lineups for each match, which could continue through the early part of the season. "We're going to mix them all up this year, our top four are really interchangeable," said Coach

The players like it that way. Dvorak said the team is doing a lot more team bonding activities. "It doesn't matter who we play with," she said, "we have fun together but

After having 10 runners at the state cross country meet last year (the boys team and three individual girls), the Staples-Motley cross country teams are in position for the rest of the state to take notice again.

The boys team graduated one senior from their top nine and have several younger runners pushing their top seven. "People have been improving all summer. We should start strong going into the season," said Hunter Klimek.

With the extra attention comes added pressure. "We expect a lot more people to come after us this year, said Bentley Christensen.

The team is ranked fifth in the state in the preseason poll by the Minnesota Cross Country Coaches Association, with Emmet Anderson ranked second individually.

But the runners know they still have to put in a lot of work to keep that high ranking. "We are trying not to get too far ahead of ourselves," said Brayden Christensen. "We will just take it one meet at a time,' said Bentley. Senior Ben Bartczak said "People have been seeing us run in the communitv all summer, they might want to come to the meets to see us in action. Come talk to other people in the crowd, have fun, have some food and go home."

The Cardinals have one main section rival in West Central Area, with Breckenridge, Melrose and Morris all bringing athletes to challenge them this season.

The girls team also has a lot of potential, with Kira Sweeney coming off two straight all-state performances, and Addison Lorber and Ashley Robben both qualifying for state last year. "We're ready to run," said Sweeney.

Captain Kaitlyn Smith said the team is starting out the season with some hard workouts like they would normally run during the middle of the season. Some of the runners are ready for the increased workload and others are struggling early on. Some of the younger runners are doing well and will be expected to step up to fill varsity positions.

"We're so excited for the younger runners, they're going to be good," said

The girls team's only senior, Jorie Ihme, said "It's a lot of motivation. With every meet, it will push me. I'll be thinking I will never get to do it again.

The girls have a very tough section with at least four teams fighting for the two spots to get to state as a team, including West Central Area, Eden Valley-Watkins/Kimball, and Albany.

Excitement in volleyball

Volleyball captains Kiara Storry and Kiera Dumpprope believe the team is looking a lot better this year, and much of it is due to the team's attitude. "We're doing a lot more team bonding things, with everyone grades 8-12," said Storry. Dumpprope agreed, "we get along a lot better," she said. With the early season excitement running up and down the program, when asked what fans can expect to see from the team this year, Storry immediately said "energy", and Dumpprope added "effort." The team has been short on wins the past few seasons, but their enthusiasm could lead to improvement and will make them exciting to watch.

Swimming seniors

Two seniors will lead the Staples-Motley swim team this year, Leah Crider, left, is in her first year of swimming, while Lili Schneider, right, has been a team leader for years. Coach Amanda Olson said the team has shown a lot of growth both individually and as a team the past two years. "The positivity that these girls possess is incredible and they are just a fun group to be around," said Olson. This year's team will be made up of mostly young swimmers. "They'll be fun to watch progress through the years," said Olson.

Motley working to reduce 2019 levy

By Dawn Timbs Staples World reporter

At a budget meeting lasting nearly three hours Aug. 20, the Motley City Council and the city's department heads looked over the proposed 2019 budget and levy; and determined possible ways to decrease both. The 2019 proposed total levy, as presented by City Clerk/Treasurer Lacey Smieja, is $414,916. This is a 12.58 percent increase from last year.

Increases in the levy stem from increases in the General Fund, as well as funds that are necessary to make payments on the Beaulieu and 2012A Street Project bonds.

In attendance were Smieja; Bruce Brotherton, Public Works Director; Police Chief Jason Borash; and council members Jace Carlson, Pat O'Regan, Amy Hutchison and Steve Johnson. Mayor Al Yoder and Fire Chief Kyle Frisk were unable to be there.

Lowering the proposed levy was a goal voiced by members of the group throughout the evening. Efforts were made to look through the budget line by line, department by department, seeking for ways to cut costs.

By the time they adjourned their meeting, the council and city staff had been able to get down to a $403,872 levy, which is a 9.58 percent increase from the 2018 levy.

They did this by making budget cuts in the fire department ($5,500) and administration department ($975), as well as cutting $9,769 from the street improvement fund levy which is to be used for future street repairs/projects. Smieja noted that the city will be getting roughly $12,000 from the state in 2019 for street improvements that will be placed in this fund.

It was also noted that cuts in the fire department fund were made to more accurately reflect past spending and future anticipated

Increases were made to the police department's budget during the course of the meeting. An increase of $3,500 was made to better reflect expected prosecution fees, and a $2,000 increase was made to the transfer fund for a future vehicle purchase. A decrease of $300 was made to the employment advertising line item in this department, as they plan to advertise for a full-time police officer in 2018, not 2019.

The council and staff discussed what it would take to lower the proposed levy some more. To get down to a 3.89 percent levy increase from 2018, they would need to have a $32,000 decrease in the levy. So far, they have reduced it by roughly $11,000, so they would need to cut roughly an additional $21,000.

If they decided they would like to achieve a zero-percent increase in the levy from 2018, additional cuts of roughly $35,000 would need to be made.

They will continue this discussion and work on the budget at their next regular council meeting on Monday, Sept. 10.

Smieja reminded them that the preliminary budget has to be set by Sept. 28.

Getting things ready

that they have been busy cleaning the school from one end of the building to the other. There were no major projects that needed to be completed this summer. (Staples World photo by Dawn Timbs)

Music on Crookneck Lake

At least 30 boats were anchored at the north end of Crookneck Lake in Motley the afternoon of Aug. 18, enjoying music by the band Super Thieves from the Twin Cities area. JJ Parker, president of the Crookneck Lake Association said the concert was well received and might become an annual event. "We try to do social events here on occasion," Parker said, mentioning a Fourth of July boat parade. He originally thought of having a band perform on a pontoon in the middle of the lake but that proved to be too difficult. In the end, Kevin and Cindy Anderson offered to have Super Thieves perform on their deck which is close to the water (pictured above). Below, boaters enjoy listening to a Creedence Clearwater Revival cover tune. (Staples World photos by Dawn Timbs)

Support for SV First Responders

Scandia Valley First Responders received a $1,767 check from Lincoln Evangelical Free Church. The church raised the funds from the bluegrass gathering held Aug. 5, in the Scandia Valley men and women volunteers who give their time and energy in helping people in their community during emergencies; they are self-funded and pay for their own supplies. A Ditch bag, which each volunteer carries in their car, can run into the thousands of dollars.
